PROM

Red carpet walk is Cohasset tradition

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Tonight, Cohasset High School prom-goers will take to the red carpet, pose for photographs and greet their adoring fans, from proud parents and grandparents to awestruck younger siblings and friends.

The event is a Cohasset institution. CHS students have been walking the red carpet and posing for photos as a pre-prom activity since 1990. The event draws a large crowd each year that gathers on the town common to watch the promenade, cheering on Cohasset's own "stars."

The event is rather

"Everybody's welcome – please come, take pictures, applaud them. They all love that; they're looking forward to it."

Diane Benson, prom planning committee unique to the area, said Diane Benson, CHS parent and co-chair of the prom planning committee.

"I don't think many other towns do something like this," said Benson. "It's quite the Cohasset tradition."

Students may be a little star-struck to learn that the carpet they tread upon came from an actual Hollywood star. Last year, the tradition got even more glamorous when actress Kate Bosworth, a 2001 CHS graduate, donated a brand new 50-foot red carpet.

Cohasset's prom night kicks off with the red carpet walk at 5:30 p.m. Couples will be announced by the red carpet emcees, CHS history teacher Jim Willis and English teacher John McCabe, who will be "all decked out in tuxedoes," said Benson.

Cohasset's stars then strike a pose for the night's photographer, parent volunteer Dan Leahy, underneath an arbor donated by Cohasset Greenery.

All this takes place before the main event, held at the Black Rock Country Club in Hingham, culminating with a post-prom party at a top-secret location. Those attending post-prom simply bring their changes of clothes with them to Town Hall, where they line up for the pre-prom gala, leaving their stuff with parent volunteers who make sure that everything is waiting for the kids at the post-prom party.

Prom-goers are shuttled from the town common to Black Rock, then to the secret post-prom location, via trolley.

SELECTMEN

Serving the town

Application process reviewed

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Those wishing to serve on Cohasset boards and committees have a process to follow, whether applying for the first time or seeking reappointment.

The Board of Selectmen reviewed the application process during the Tuesday, May 27 meeting, although the discussion was preliminary. Chairman Diane Kennedy said that she would like to have a larger discussion during the board's June 17 meeting.

The current process involves an application form, which can be found attached to the Annual Town Meeting warrant (it is also available in the Town Clerk's office). Selectman Karen Quigley suggested making the form available online while selectman Martha Gjesteby added that the form should be on the bulletin board downstairs in Town Hall.

Quigley also inquired about having a second form for reappointments, or perhaps a box to check off on the application.

Town Manager Chris Senior said that the form could be available on the town website soon, once the selectmen have reviewed the form and submitted their comments. Selectman Kevin McCarthy asked that all board chairmen have a chance to review the draft as well.

Senior also explained that as he was reviewing the list of committees with openings, he noticed that some of the term limits were "out of whack," particularly with permitting boards like the Conservation Commission and the Community Preservation Committee; some of the cycles have changed over time, the town manager said.

Kennedy wondered if the CPC seats are selectmen appointments, as CPC members are representatives of other boards, except for the citizens at large seats. Senior said that historically, each board nominates someone to serve on the Blood drive is next Friday in Cohasset

What: The American Red Cross hopes the residents of Cohasset will take some time out of their busy lives to give the Gift of Life. A Red Cross Blood Drive will be held on Friday, June 6, at St. Anthony's Parish Hall, 10 Summer St. between the hours of 1:30 and 6:30 p.m. At this time, donations of all blood types are needed to meet the needs of patients in local hospitals as well as those throughout New England.

What you need to know: In order to give blood, potential donors must be at least 16 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health. Most medications and medical conditions do not prohibit a person from being a blood donor. Donors can give blood safely every eight weeks. For more information on the blood donation process, current eligibility guidelines or if you want to know if you are eligible to donate, call the American Red Cross nursing line at 800-462-9400, ext. 2210, or visit www.redcrossblood.org

Contact: To make an appointment to donate at this Blood Drive or if you have questions, call Kevin or Ann O'Connor at 781-383-1290, the Red Cross Blood Services at 800-448-3543 or visit www.redcross.org. Tell a friend or bring a friend and give the gift of life. If you cannot make it to this Cohasset Blood Drive on Friday, June 6, you can go on the web at the site address above for a sampling of other upcoming blood drives in the area.

More: Everyone, whether it is realized or not, depends on blood. Every 2 seconds, someone needs blood. Each day, patients across the country receive approximately 38,000 units of this lifesaving resource. This year alone, as many as 5 million patients will require blood transfusions, as accident victims, people undergoing surgery, and patients receiving treatment for leukemia, cancer and other diseases.

Grace Griffiths

Name: Grace Griffiths (a.k.a. GG).

Occupation: Teacher/RISE coordinator.

Best day of your life: The best days of my life were those of becoming a parent and grandparent – awesome!

Best vacation: The best vacation was six weeks of painting and traveling around Italy. The last two weeks spent with my children were like a movie – magical!

Favorite season: My favorite season is autumn. I feel my most energetic and creative; this is probably because my life revolves so much around the school year!

Favorite holiday: Thanksgiving is my favorite holiday. No gifts necessary, just being there, together.

Favorite junk food, meal or dessert: My favorite dessert is good trifle – I make one that is really yummy!

Best book: The best book is "Truman" by David McCullough. Everyone should read this book to understand how President Truman shaped our world and the last half of the 20th century to today.

Best movie or actor: The best movie is the 1987 movie "Bagdad Café," a comedy to laugh out loud without feeling people wouldn't think it funny.

Best TV show: The TV show I don't like to miss is "Sunday Morning" with Charles O-

The Mariner caught up with Grace Griffiths, coordinator of the before and after school RISE program at the Deer Hill School, over coffee at French Memories. If you see Grace around town, be sure to tell her you spotted her in Picture This! PHOTO/ERIN DALE land, Elizabeth II.

Goal: My most immediate goal is to have my Civic reach 300,000 miles; it has 267,000.

Biggest worry: That the car won't make it! I don't know what would be the best replacement; the new ones are so full of technical things I really don't need.

Best part of Cohasset: Its nautical beauty and wonderful families!

Phone app and officer bridge language barrier

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

A woman, who was reportedly walking around aimlessly in the Ledgewood Drive/Brewster Road area, actually turned out to be from the Ukraine and did not speak any English, police said.

Officers that responded to the scene at about 1:30 p.m. on Monday (May 19) tried to speak to her but due to the language barrier could not communicate. They could not determine what language the woman was speaking until one of the officers caught one word, and using an app on his smart phone that provides translation spoke the word into the phone and determined she was speaking Russian.

Cohasset Special Police Officer Bo Buhnenik, who moved here from the Ukraine when he was 12, was working a local detail at a construction site, heard the radio transmission and went to the area. He conversed with the woman, who is 49 and lives on Gannett Pasture Lane in Scituate. She and her son, who is 28, were walking in the woods when they had an argument and he left. She became lost and eventually came out in the Brewster Road area, police said.

Police took her home and spoke with her son. She was advised of all her rights but nothing physical had occurred, so the incident was settled.

MVA

Police responded to a two-vehicle accident at 2:27 p.m. on Tuesday (May 20) at the intersection of Ripley Road and Sohier Street. A 2005 Dodge Caravan, operated by a 17-year-old Cohasset boy, was sitting at the red light on Ripley Road facing the library, when a 1999 Mack semi tractor-trailer truck hauling debris went through the green light on Sohier (from the direction of Route 3A) to turn left onto Ripley Road and cut the corner too tightly. A 26-year-old Hingham man was operating the truck.

The trailer caught the front driver's side of the Caravan, police said. Although the driver of the truck appeared to be at fault, he was not cited because the road had been recently paved and there were no markings. Neither vehicle was towed.

Rollover crash

At about 12:15 p.m. Thursday (May 22) the Cohasset Police Department's emergency dispatch center received a cellular telephone call reporting an erratic driver in a Mercury Sable on Route 3A near the intersection of Pond Street. As soon as the call for the erratic driver was dispatched, the department received several calls reporting a serious motor vehicle crash in front of Cohasset High School on Pond Street.

First arriving officers found a 2002 Mercury Sable on its roof with an elderly female driver trapped inside of it. Officers provided first aid to the driver, who is 75 and from Cohasset, until members of the Cohasset Fire Department arrived. After rescue personnel extricated her, she was transported to South Shore Hospital in Weymouth by a mutual aid ambulance from Hull. She is in serious condition in a Boston Hospital.

Officers that responded to the scene at about 1:30 p.m. on Monday (May 19) tried to speak to her but due to the language barrier could not communicate. They could not determine what language the woman was speaking until one of the officers caught one word, and using an app on his smart phone that provides translation spoke the word into the phone and determined she was speaking Russian.

Cohasset Special Police Officer Bo Buhnenik, who moved here from the Ukraine when he was 12, was working a local detail at a construction site, heard the radio transmission and went to the area. He conversed with the woman, who is 49 and lives on Gannett Pasture Lane in Scituate. She and her son, who is 28, were walking in the woods when they had an argument and he left. She became lost and eventually came out in the Brewster Road area, police said.

Police took her home and spoke with her son. She was advised of all her rights but nothing physical had occurred, so the incident was settled.

Fraud

A 62-year-old Cohasset woman went to the police station on Wednesday afternoon (May 21) to report that her debit card had been compromised. Although she still had possession of the card, someone had the number and had made more than $370 in purchases for different consumers all over the country.

She reported the fraud to her bank, which is changing her account number and refunding the amount of money spent. She was advised to monitor her credit regularly.

Larceny

A 49-year-old woman who owns a business in the village told police on Thursday morning (May 22) that someone had stolen a Hosta plant valued at $7 and a small man-hole cover valued at $100 that accesses an irrigation system.

Illegal dumping

New signs are up in an area off Cushing Road that is owned by the water department and where some people have been illegally dumping yard debris. The signs alert people that it is illegal to dump there. The area is near one of the town's primary wells and any kind of pesticide or lawn chemicals that might be on the debris could affect the water.

Police investigated a recent complaint about yard debris being dumped there and located some debris. If they can identify the perpetrators, they will refer them to the conservation commission for enforcement of the town bylaw, police said.

Cemetery

A family whose plot abuts another's at Woodside Cemetery complained to police last week that that family has poisoned the grass on their loved one's grave, police said. The family was advised to take the issue up with the DPW, police said.

No trespass

A 69-year-old Scituate man who was allegedly harassing customers and the veteran selling poppies Sunday (May 25) outside Curtis Liquors at Tedeschi Plaza, has been issued a no-trespass order from the liquor store, police said.

Out of the woods

Police heard from a concerned caller on Sunday (May 25) around 2:42 p.m. that an older man had gone into the woods at the foot of Beechwood Street near the Reservoir with two dogs and that the dogs came out but the man did not. They dogs apparently went back into the woods a short time later and the man, who is 74, and his dogs, who were off-leash, surfaced safely. The dogs apparently got ahead of the man, police said.

She reported the fraud to her bank, which is changing her account number and refunding the amount of money spent. She was advised to monitor her credit regularly.

No bonfire

Police responded to a report that someone was lighting a bonfire on Black Rock Beach on Sunday night (May 25) around 8:42 p.m. It turned out the people had a cooking fire for which they had obtained a permit. There was no problem, police said.

Pool jumpers

Police received a call from the management at the Avalon complex about some teenage girls that appeared intoxicated and had climbed over the fence into the swimming pool area on Sunday night (May 25) around 8 p.m. When police arrived, the girls had fled. However they tracked them down and spoke with them. The matter was turned over to the management company at the complex to handle.

nary clinic nurses, Adrienne Stevenson and Zoe Stoner. The animal had been trying to smash her way out of the window, police said.

They were able to sedate the deer and then transport it to the clinic where the doe had surgery to repair the tendon, vessel and close the lacerations.

The deer had lacerations on its legs and injuries to a vessel and tendon after jumping through the window around 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday (May 27).

The homeowner called 9-1-1 reporting the deer was running through the house.

The panicked animal that ended up in a bathroom off the rear bedroom slipped around on the tile before being tackled by Stevenson and two veterinary clinic nurses, Adrienne Stevenson and Zoe Stoner. The animal had been trying to smash her way out of the window, police said.

"We all got so behind it and were so excited that the deer was doing better," she said.

Stevenson said the deer was too young to have had a fawn so there were no worries that she had left a baby somewhere.

"She was just a 'kid,' and that explains what may have driven her to dive through the window," Stevenson said. The window would have looked like the entrance to a cave and that something had frightened the deer.

The Environmental Police also helped with the rescue.

Police said there was considerable damage in the home.

Register of Deeds hosts Cohasset office hours

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell will host office hours at Cohasset Town Hall in the basement meeting room, from 10 a.m. to noon, on Thursday, June 26.

O'Donnell and members of his staff will be on hand to answer questions about the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds. The Register will have information about the Massachusetts Homestead Act as well as on-site workstations that can provide in real time the status of a mortgage discharge, a print out of a deed or a demonstration of how Registry technology works. No appointment is necessary.

It is O'Donnell's goal to provide a convenient way for residents to learn more about how the Registry serves Norfolk County while conducting Registry business closer to home. Although Registry staff cannot provide legal advice, they will be able to answer basic questions, provide general information, take a document for recording and assist in filling out Homestead Declaration Forms.

To learn more about these and other Registry of Deeds events and initiatives like the Registry at Facebook .com/NorfolkDeeds or on twitter.com/NorfolkDeeds.

Local rocker's song honors veterans

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Rock music has a long history of raising issues, whether to stage a protest or support a cause. A new song written by a local musician in honor of veterans asks listeners to remember Massachusetts' fallen – all 37,000 of them.

The Massachusetts Military Heroes Fund approached Howie Altholtz of Cohasset, an attorney and singer-songwriter, to write a song for Memorial Day. Altholtz was happy to lend his talents to the cause.

The song, titled "Train Called War," is pure rock and roll with a bit of country flair. Although he considers himself a rocker at heart, Altholtz said he drew inspiration from country music to write the song, feeling that country music fit the patriotic theme.

"I associate country with soldiers more than traditional rock," he said.

While explaining that his music is "often very political," however leaning "more toward the liberal side," this was a cause Altholtz was happy to champion.

"There's always contention in American politics," the attorney and musician said. "The one thing we can all come together on is support for the men and women who serve... and put it on the line for us."

"Whatever side you're on, everyone's for peace," he continued. "Whatever political avenue you're coming from, the one thing everyone agrees on is taking care of soldiers not only when overseas, but when they come home."

The Mass. Military Heroes Fund is a Boston non-profit that supports the families of military personnel with ties to the Commonwealth, who have died as a result of active duty after Sept. 11, 2001.

Every year, the group places 37,000 flags on the Boston common for Memorial Day, in honor of the 37,000 servicemen and women from Mass. who have perished since the Revolutionary War.

This number struck Altholtz, and he decided to use that as a theme in his song. "It was very powerful," he said of first hearing the number. "I started rolling with the metaphor and started writing it."

The other image that came to mind as he composed the song was of a train. This came after some of the lyrics had been written and the music began to take shape. "I wrote the words first," Altholtz explained. "As I was writing the music, I kind of felt that the song had this motion, like a train going down the tracks."

The "train called war," said Altholtz, "just keeps on going; it never stops. Throughout history, the soldiers are the ones left to take the ride."

The musician said that his song was well-received by the Heroes Fund, although he was asked to tweak the lyrics to be "more oriented about the families of the loved ones left behind."

Altholtz said that he was given the honor to write the song after Dawn Teixeira of the Heroes Fund approached him. Teixeira is also a songwriter and has known Altholtz for a while, he said.

The kicker was that he only had a few weeks to compose and record the song. Altholtz said that he was asked to take on the project less than a month ago. The entire song came together, from writing to recording, in just over a week.

"It was probably one of the fastest songs I've ever written," he said. "From the time it was [first] discussed to the complete recording and production of it, it was [done in] seven to eight days.

"The idea came to me almost immediately," said Altholtz, adding that he wrote the song in around 15 hours, then sent it to his bandmate and collaborator, Joe Felloni to "work his magic in the studio."

Felloni arranged the song and recorded the instrumentation, and Altholtz recorded his vocals. The song was debuted at the Heroes Fund May 21 event on the Boston Common, during which the 37,000 flags were planted.

Altholtz said it was a moving day, adding that he met several servicemen and women, along with Gov. Patrick and Boston Marathon hero Carlos Arredondo.

"It was a powerful event," said Altholtz. "Actually being there really reinforced the power of seeing 37,000 flags."

It was a goose bump moment."

While he has been in the music business for 30 years as a writer, performer, attorney and producer, Altholtz said that this is the first time he was commissioned to write a song on request.

"I'm happy I was able to contribute in my small way, and hope it gives people pleasure and a powerful moment of contemplation," he said.

The song is available for download with a donation to the Massachusetts Military Heroes Fund in any amount; email Altholtz at howie2025@comcast.net to request a copy.

"Train Called War"

I hear that train a comin', comin' down the line
When you hear that train a comin', it might just be your time
And when that train starts to rollin', heading for your door

That train just keeps on comin', it's the train that we call war

Train keeps a rollin' on
Train just keeps a rollin', on and on

37,000, knocks upon the door
37,000, comin' back no more
Some differences divide us, and some things stay the same
The sound as all our teardrops, meet at the gravesides in the rain

Train keeps a rollin' on
Train just keeps a rollin', on and on

37,000, tears in a mother's eye
37,000, dads just learned to cry
With all its twists and turns, the families endure
And teach us all, about love and loss

On this train that we call war

Train keeps a rollin' on
Train just keeps a rollin', on and on

That old train keeps a comin', I've heard that sound before
The soldiers left to take the ride, on the train that we call war
I hope this train stop runnin', and we finally say goodbye
For the 37,000, for their courage, and honor we cry

Firefighter Michael Kennedy is 'Big Brother of the Year'

Michael Kennedy, a Boston firefighter who lost his life fighting a nine-alarm fire in March, was named the Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts Bay's "Big of the Year."

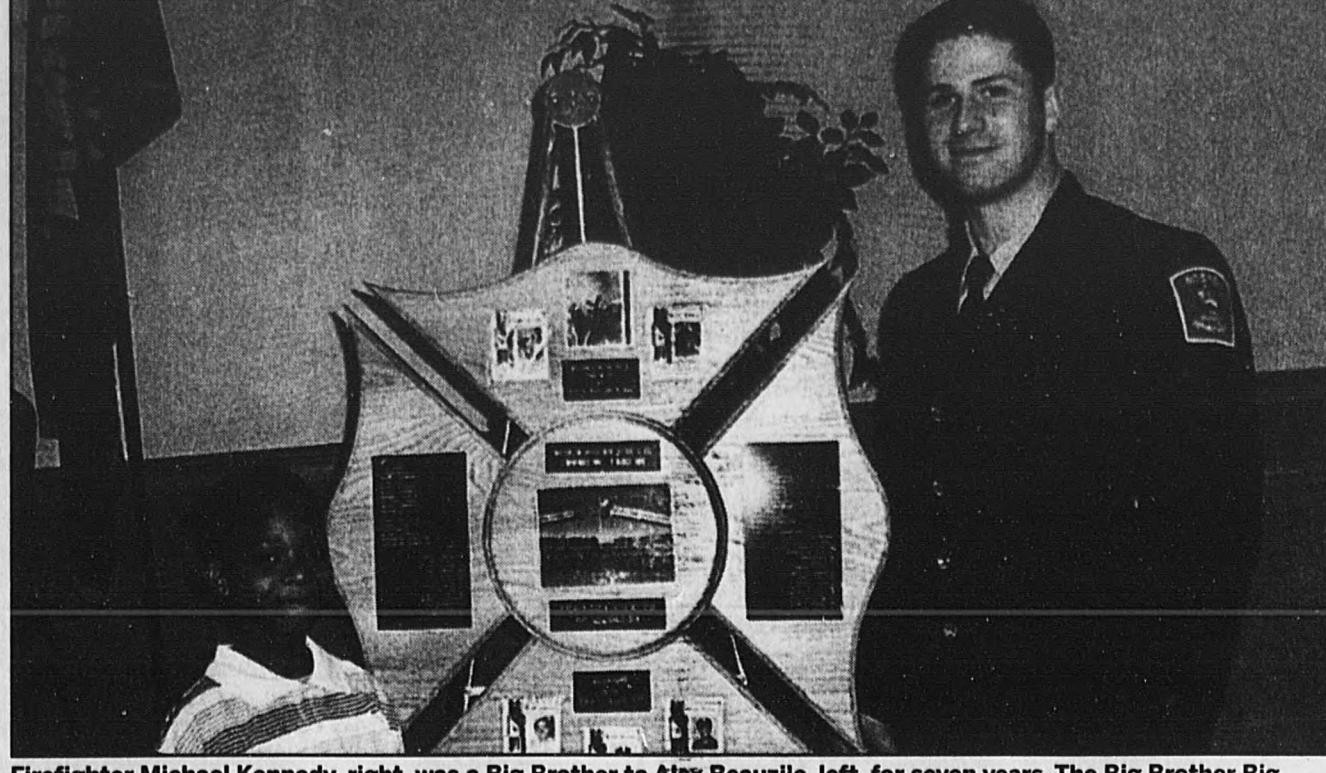

Kennedy, 33, became a Ladder 15 firefighter in 2007 after serving as a Marine. He perished in the March 26 Back Bay fire along with Lieutenant Ed Walsh, 43.

Kennedy lived in Hyde Park and was the son of Patrick Kennedy of Holbrook and Kathy Crosby-Bell of Cohasset. He grew up in Milton.

The firefighter, a Big Brother for seven years, was honored at the Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts Bay (BBBSMB) "Big of the Year Gala" on May 22.

Kennedy was a friend to 14-year-old Alex Beauzile, taking him to sporting events and amusement parks and spending time together just hanging out. Most of all, he was a role model and mentor who changed Alex's life forever.

Year, we celebrate seven years of friendship," said Wendy Foster, CEO of BBBSMB.

"Like many of our incredible 'Bigs,' Michael inspired his 'Little' to reach higher, walk taller, dream bigger and grow stronger," said Foster. "We are humbled and privileged to be

About Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts Bay

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts Bay is an innovative, energetic organization that is making a real difference in the lives of nearly 2,000 youth by providing them with an invested, caring adult mentor.

With research and proven outcomes at its core, Big Brothers Big Sisters of Massachusetts Bay is working to ensure every child has the support from caring adults that they need for healthy development and success in life.

The organization's vision is to inspire, engage and transform communities in Massachusetts Bay by helping youth achieve their full potential, contributing to healthier families, better schools, brighter futures and stronger communities.

CPC, but the selectmen pick the citizens at large.

"That's something we need to know," said Kennedy, adding that board chairmen should be made aware of this as well. She also wondered if selectmen members of CPC need to be sworn in as CPC members.

Quigley said she thinks swearing in should be a requirement for all board members. "I would think it's important for everyone who volunteers to serve on a committee to be sworn in. It demonstrates the importance," indicating the individual "takes it seriously."

To that end, Quigley added that she is "not a fan of" ad-hoc committees that don't require applications or swearing in; all town committees should follow Robert's Rules of Order, take votes, keep minutes, post meetings and be open to the public.

Kennedy said she "couldn't agree more."

Gjesteby said that there should be more stringent requirements for minutes, saying that she's concerned that a lot of boards don't keep them. Copies should be kept not only in the town clerk's office, said Gjesteby, but also in the selectmen's office "so we know what's going on."

Kennedy agreed that while hard copies are available at Town Hall, the minutes are "not as accessible as everyone would like" them to be.

Gjesteby added later in the meeting that "it would be helpful to know" which committees are "lapse on minutes." Kennedy said that was something the town manager could look into, cautioning that however, "We don't want to go on a witch hunt or fishing expedition."

It's another item to tack onto the list of needs for the new town website, which has yet to be unveiled. The town manager said that minutes would be available on the new site.

Selectman Steve Gaumer said that committee organizational structure and objectives should be established on an annual basis, and that wasn't a "farfetched" requirement.

Kennedy said that while she believes that "most committees do that," there is no harm in the selectmen taking the lead. "I think we're responsible to walk them through" the process, she said.

Openings on town boards and committees

Board and committee openings June 2014, appointed by the Board of Selectmen.

- Cable Advisory Committee — Three positions open, one-year appointment.
- Cohasset Common Historic District Commission — One position open (resident), three-year appointment.
- Cohasset Community Television Corporation, Board of Directors — One position open.
- Cohasset Cultural Council — Four positions.
- Community Preservation Committee — 6 positions open.
- Conservation Commission — Three positions open; two associate positions open; three year and one year.
- Council on Elder Affairs — Three positions open.
- Open Space Committee — Three positions open for three years.
- Senior Center Planning Committee — No positions open.
- Stormwater Advisory Committee — One position open.
- Zoning Board of Appeals — Two positions open and two associate positions.

Attracting volunteers

Advisory chairman Peter Pescatore, who was in the audience, said that while the application form for town committees is usually attached to the Town Meeting warrant, his board has "historically had a bit of a problem finding people willing to put in the time" to serve, and wondered if some of the application seemed like too much of a barrier.

Pescatore added that his board does not receive many applications; members often have to be recruited.

Kennedy responded that in general, she isn't aware of a problem on most town boards. "I don't see us having a lack of people willing to serve," she said. "Most committees are full."

Quigley wondered if the problem is that many people don't know what some of the boards do, chalk it up to a matter of communication. "I don't think we do a really good job getting it out there," Quigley said of information on the various town boards.

Gaumer agreed, recalling trying to recruit members for the Capital Budget Committee, which he served on for several years, and "getting zero response."

Kennedy said she hopes each committee will have a page on the town website with a description of what, exactly, the board does.

McCarthy said that it's up to the selectmen to "professionalize" the application process and interactions with all of the committees. "We simply need to be more inviting," he said.

Quigley said that perhaps some qualified folks don't apply to certain boards because they "feel they don't belong to the right group and won't be included." It's another reason the selectmen should try to build more bridges, McCarthy urged, saying the town will attract more diversity on boards if officials are "positive, open, and inviting."

Kennedy brought up what happens when more than one person applies for a single open seat, saying that the selectmen need to do a better job of keeping track of applications.

Quigley agreed, saying the board should keep a file of all applications and have better due diligence in revisiting the file and "reaching out to people" to perhaps serve on other boards. The board should also make a point to touch base with everyone who applies for a position so that whenever an application is received, "it's acknowledged."

This year marks a change in location; for the past several years, prom has been held at the Venezia Waterfront Restaurant in Quincy. CHS principal Carolyn Connolly informed the School Committee of the change a few months ago, saying that she was pleased to find a venue closer to home for students.

"It's essentially right down the street," Benson said of the country club. "It makes it easier for the kids."

Safety is a top concern for parents, which is how the post-prom tradition began years ago. Parent volunteers, many of whom have been "room parents" since their children were in kindergarten, according to Benson, have orchestrated the event "to keep [students] safe and off the streets."

Benson said that this year's prom planning committee, which she chaired alongside Ellen Maher, has around 25 parent volunteers that began meeting together months ago to plan a night their children will never forget.

It's fitting, then, that members of the senior class have dubbed themselves "One 'Four' the Ages," playing off the fact that they graduate in '14.

Benson said that while the pre-prom activities don't have a theme per se, "one for the ages" certainly seems appropriate. She will be cheering on her own senior, son Derek.

She anticipates an "exciting" evening and encourages all members of the community to come out and cheer on the promgoers as they take their glamorous walk around the common.

"Everybody's welcome — please come, take pictures, applaud them," she said. "They all love that; they're looking forward to it."

While Benson said she hopes the weather holds, if rain should fall, the pre-prom red carpet walk will take place in the CHS gymnasium.

Good news

Here is some great news about academic standouts and graduates to share this week. We congratulate one and all on their achievements! Remember to keep the good news coming; information on how to reach us is at the end of the column.

Latin Exam

Woodward students participate in the National Latin exam annually, which is sponsored by the National Junior Classical League under the aegis of the American Classical League. This year, more than 154,000 Latin students around the world sat for this exam. The exam tests knowledge not only of the Latin language, but also ancient Roman culture, religion, geography and history.

Receiving honor awards for her performance on the National Latin Exam was Mary Kate McGowan of Cohasset, Class of 2018, Certificate of Merit as well as a Silver Medal for her Maxima Cum Laude performance on the Latin I Exam.

Scholarship

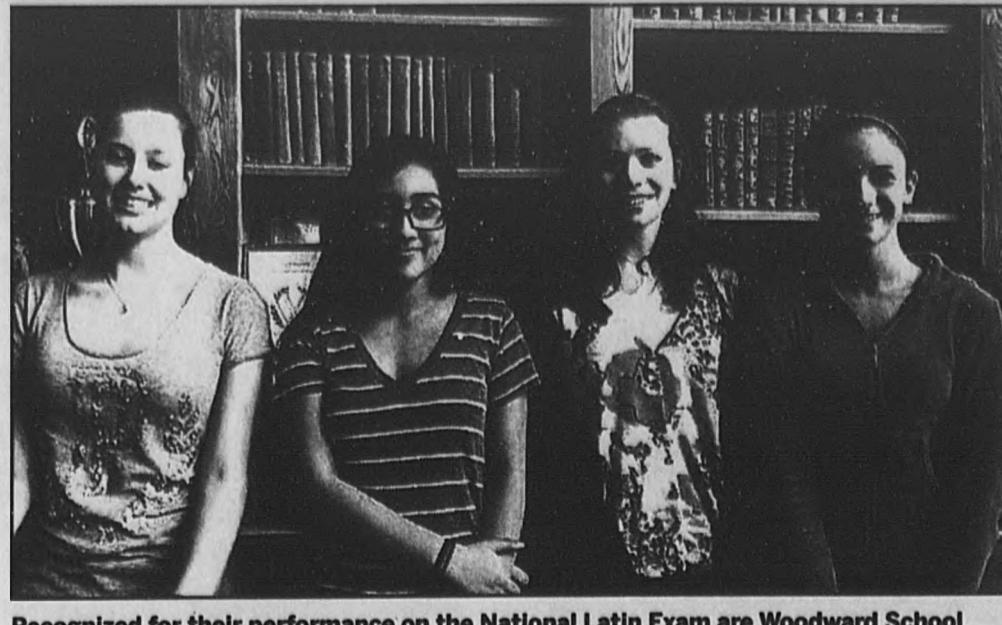

The 2014 William T. Adams Memorial Scholarship, given annually by Choral Art Society of the South Shore, has been awarded to Cohasset High School Senior Faith E. Porter.

This scholarship, created in honor of founder, William T. Adams, is awarded each year to a graduating senior for the South Shore who plans to pursue music as a major in college. The opportunity is offered to students in the towns of Cohasset, Duxbury, Hingham, Hull, Kingston, Marshfield, Norwell, Pembroke, Plymouth, Plympton, and Scituate.

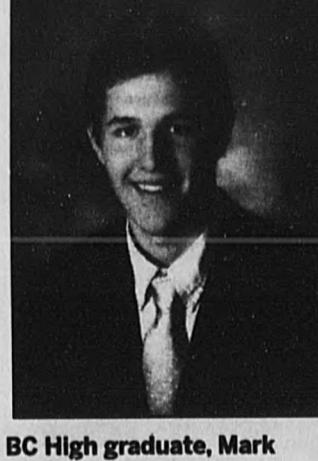

Choral Art Society congratulates Faith for her wonderful high school achievements and wishes her our very best as she begins her studies in September at Marymount Manhattan College.

BC High

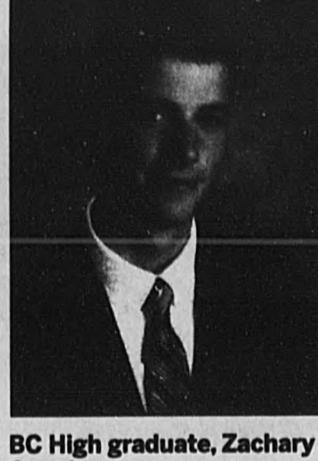

Boston College High School's 150th Commencement took place Sunday, May 18, 2014. President William Kemeza and the Board of Trustees presented diplomas to 290 members of the Class of 2014. Among the graduates were Cohasset residents: Mark Brown and Zachary Coggins. Both graduated with academic honors and as members of the National Honor Society.

Providence

The following Cohasset students were among over 900 students from Providence College who received undergraduate degrees during the College's Ninety-Sixth Commencement Exercises held on Sunday, May 18, 2014.

- Sean Aherne received a bachelor of arts degree
- Taryn Donohue received a bachelor of science degree
- Sarah Libby received a bachelor of arts degree
- Sean MacCarthy received a bachelor of science degree

Connecticut

Abigail Faulkner of Cohasset was awarded a bachelor of arts degree from Connecticut College at the 96th commencement ceremony on May 18.

Abigail graduated cum laude with a major in economics.

W&L University

Alexandra Butler of Cohasset, a member of the Class of 2015 at Washington and Lee University, earned dean's list status for the recently ended winter term. Dean's list status at Washington and Lee represents a term grade-average of at least 3.4 on a 4.0 scale.

UMass-D.

Ryan Walker from Cohasset graduated from UMass School of Law and received the Juris Doctor degree May 19, 2014. The ceremony took place at UMass Dartmouth Main Campus.

Kristin DiCroce of Cohasset graduated Summa Cum Laude with a bachelor of science degree in nursing at UMass-Dartmouth during Commencement weekend May 16 and 17.

Skidmore

Logan Breslow of Cohasset received a bachelor of science degree from Skidmore College at the college's 103rd commencement on May 17, 2014.

Nichols College

Nichols College in Dudley held its 2014 Commencement on Saturday, May 10, for 399 undergraduate and graduate students, including Jake Wheelwright of Cohasset, who earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration cum laude.

Bowdoin

William Francis Wise, of Cohasset, a member of the Bowdoin College Class of 2014 graduated with a major in Economics and a minor in Government and Legal Studies.

Bates honors

Margaux Donze of Cohasset was named to the dean's list at Bates for the winter 2014 semester — a distinction earned by students whose cumulative grade point average is 3.71 or higher.

Margaux, the daughter of Jeffrey A. Donze, is a 2010 graduate of Cohasset Middle High School. She is majoring in psychology at Bates.

Eastern Conn.

Eastern Connecticut State University's 124th Commencement took place at the XL Center in Hartford on May 13. In all, 1,162 undergraduates and 65 graduate students earned their degrees.

Christopher Brown of Cohasset graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Communication.

That is the news for this week Cohasset. Send in all your news, photos and celebration info to me no later than Tuesdays by 5 pm.

Just an FYI. We receive dean's list and honors notices from many colleges and private schools, but not all. If your son or daughter has earned recognition, please share that news directly with us!

We also LOVE new baby announcements with photos if possible. Need birth date, weight, length, names of siblings, parents and grandparents. Emailed photos are fine but glossies can be dropped off at Tedeschi's in the village in our Mariner drop box.

LIFE AT CHS

Enriching adventures for the Class of 2014

MATTHEW MACCORMACK

This time one week ago, as the slender hands of the clock inched closer and closer to 2:10 pm, seniors across CHS held their breath.

And as soon as the clock struck these oh-so-magical numbers, the Class of 2014 had completed their duties as students at 143 Pond Street. There were certainly a few tears and pangs of sadness. However, as evidenced by the swath of students who swelled the main entrance, the majority of seniors were illuminated by the instant dose of freedom they received upon heading out the front doors.

However, just because we seniors have completed our schoolwork for our high school stay, we are not quite unchained from the leash of scholarly power.

As the rest of CHS's three grades continue on with their academic endeavors, CHS's elder statesmen have embarked on a few more enriching adventures. Thus, as part of the senior-led Student Council's initiative to remove seniors from largely superfluous classes and into real world experiences in the last week, we as a class headed out to two remarkable trips this week.

The first came on Tuesday, where the clouds' minor threats of rain weren't menacing enough to keep away the seniors of CHS.

With their "Community Service Day", students split into groups of 10 to 12, with a senior member of the Student Council leading each squadron. Students then drove around to nine different sites, including Holly Hill Farm, Elder Affairs, Sandy Beach, and more. At these sites, the student did any job from mulching to washing cars to picking up trash. It was certainly rewarding for the Class of 2014, as they had the opportunity, at least for a few hours, to give back to the community that has given them so much.

Wednesday marked more of a traditionally fun day on the senior calendar. The students went into town, learning about the history of Boston and getting some free time to explore. After participating in a wonderfully informative scavenger hunt (which took students across the Back Bay neighborhood, from Trinity Church to Nike Town to the Boston Public Library) created by Principal Connolly, the students took a quick ride on Duck Boats (Quack!) and then were allowed time to find some lunch. Overall, the trip was a great way for seniors to still do something as a class without being cooped up in the classroom.

Today, Friday, will mark the third and arguably most important event of this week for CHS's seniors.

That's right folks, tonight is Prom Night! Cohasset's young folk will head down to the common this evening for Pre-Prom, clad in their colorful bowties and sharp jackets and frilly dresses and done-up hair. Certainly, there will be plenty of pictures taken and memories made, as the student's head to Black Rock for their dinner ceremonies.

Certainly, I will give more details on the big night as they come.

Next week, the seniors will have a light schedule between yearbook signings, cookouts, and a little more community service. Details will be forthcoming, but for now, that is all I have to say. Have a great weekend, and keep it classy Cohasset!

Matthew MacCormack is a graduating senior and a regular contributor to the Cohasset Mariner.

GIMME SHELTER

Mia is a perfect little lady

PAULA J. FATERSIK

Every week brings another beautiful angel to the shelter, and this week a little bit of heaven arrived at the door. Our Mia is a perfect little lady, even if she was living a bit of a rebel lifestyle for the first year of her life. Mia was loved very much, but unfortunately, she was caught up in a no cats allowed situation. This meant being separated from someone she loves, but we are hoping that it will also mean a very loving and caring forever home for the sweetest girl ever.

Mia is an awesome one-year-old who is an engaging, friendly and peaceful young cat. She adores attention and affection and has the most beautiful purr that comes so easily as you spend time with her. Sharing a lap will no doubt be something Mia will enjoy as she settles in with her new owner. Of course, with such a sweet personality, she is sure to bring smiles and a warm, loving feeling to her new home. As she has been a little timid with most of the other cats, Mia will be happier in a home where she can relax and be an only pet. Then you will be able to enjoy interactive play with her and she will show her natural curiosity in warm and safe new surroundings.

With almond shaped, Siamese like green-golden eyes, Mia has very intriguing looks. Her Torbie fur is a beautiful mix of muted cream and cocoa with copper accent. She is small in size, but has a big heart and is ready to give you love and be by your side.

Someone is going to be very fortunate in making a perfect new friend with Mia, and will know right away just how very special she is. Since Mia has just been spayed, some TLC is just what she will need and everyone here is hoping that she will find the best forever home soon.

Please call Judy at 781-534-4902 for more information on this angelic girl. She is so good natured and easy going, and will be a perfect companion for someone who is looking for a cat to share cozy time with.

Our regular Open Hours are Monday evenings from 6:30 to 7:30 and Saturdays from 2-3 p.m. Appointments can also be arranged with Judy, our adoption coordinator if needed. Hull Seaside Animal Rescue is located at 50 L St. in Hull so please come by to visit.

Please visit our website, www.HSAR.org, and click on Available Pets. There, you will see more of our wonderful adult cats and kittens who are waiting for special families and homes on Petfinder.com. Just enter our zip code, 02045. You can check our Facebook page as well for updates and photos.

We currently have 4 new kittens: Henry, Spencer, Hattie and Mae, who just arrived in the shelter. Also, another momma cat is in foster care right now so we will be seeing more furry little ones soon. If you are interested in adopting a pair of sweet babies, please visit the shelter soon. This is just the start of kitten season, and we are hoping to find the best, most loving and caring homes for each and every one. These innocent little kittens are just waiting for homes where they can thrive and grow, bringing smiles and love to their new families.

As we are getting closer to our Spring/Summer fundraiser, please save the date and join us! On Saturday night, June 21, we will be holding our Gimme Shelter event at Raffael's Restaurant at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham from 7-11 p.m. There will be a hot buffet and live music as well as raffles and a silent auction running throughout the evening. Please join us for a fabulous night dedicated to the welfare of abandoned and homeless animals.

Tickets are $50 and are available at the shelter, online at www.hsar.org, and at the door. Bring friends, family and enjoy a wonderful night out! If your group or business can help us out with gift certificates or silent auction items please contact Nancy at 781-925-3638 or call Casey at 781-925-3121.

Again, sincere thanks to all of the readers of Gimme Shelter in the Hingham Journal and Cohasset Mariner for your response and generous donations to the shelter's needs. Providing loving and understanding homes for so many of our cats and kittens has been a gift that we appreciate every day. Also, thank you to those who keep us up to date with photos of their new feline family members. It is great to see them so happy in their new homes.

It has been my pleasure to write the stories of our featured cats for the past two years. Each of them deserve a chance at a relaxed and settled life in a wonderful forever home. Watching them move on, with their big personalities, lovable quirks and special and endearing characteristics is both exciting and heartwarming. In June, my focus will again be working with the feline community in the shelter who need so much dedicated time and attention as they are adjusting and getting ready for their chance to go to the best home. Casey Fredette, our shelter manager, will be sharing his stories in Gimme Shelter as we continue to promote all of our fabulous, future companions and family members. There are many more frisky kittens and super cats available who will make your house a home!

To our dedicated volunteers, thank you for giving your time, caring for and showing your concern and love for all of the homeless kittens and cats who find their way to Hull Seaside Animal Rescue. We run into some pretty sudden circumstances at times and it is great to have so many people pitch in and work to keep things running smoothly.

Volunteering is a commitment that deserves recognition and we are so lucky to have dedicated and generous people working together to support the mission of HSAR.

Thank you to our regular visitors who bring us much needed revenue by sharing redeemable cans and bottles. It is a big help and our volunteers spend hours making sure that all are sorted and turned in weekly. This is a great help to us. Our thanks also go out to all of those who drop by with donations of food and supplies that keep our residents comfortable and healthy.

Handcrafted cat bedding and coverlets are adding comfort and color to the shelter these days and we are thrilled to have supporters who share their beautiful items with us. Purr and meow to all of the kittens and cats to all of you who take the time to assist Hull Seaside Animal Rescue.

5 THINGS TO DO THIS WEEK

There's plenty to do in and around Cohasset

1 Coffee with the Authors : Buttonwood Books and Toys hosts its semiannual event Coffee with the Authors on from 9:45 to 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, June 3, at Atlantica. Enjoy a continental breakfast while three contemporary authors discuss their latest work. Reservations and tickets ($16 per person) are necessary. Call Buttonwood at 781-383-2665 to reserve a place.

2 Ballroom Dance Refresher — Thursday, June 5, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Join others at Cohasset Lighkeepers for a ballroom dance refresher course taught by representatives from the Fred Astair Studio. Cost is $5. Call Cohasset Elder Affairs at 781-383-9112 if interested in attending.

3 On stage — Cohasset residents Carol Demick, Alison Donaghue and Maddie Tesauro of Notre Dame Academy will perform in the NDA Players' production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream." This is a 90-minute family friendly version of Shakespeare's tale of love, magic and mistaken identity. Performances will take place at Cushing Auditorium at Notre Dame Academy, 1073 Main St., Hingham, at 7 p.m. on Friday, May 30, and 2 p.m., Sunday, June 1. Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door.

4 Art exhibit — South Shore Art Center is presenting a show of oil and watercolor paintings by Vcevy Strelakovsky at Paul Pratt Library, 35 Ripley Road, now through June 30. A third-generation painter of Russian heritage, Strelakovsky graduated from Middlebury College in 1960, where he studied with Vermont watercolor artist Arthur K.D. Healy. In 1963 he received a master's degree in architecture from the University of Pennsylvania, and is president of Strelakovsky Architecture Inc. in Hingham. Strelakovsky has also studied painting with artists John Kilroy, Carolyn Anderson, Michael Lynch, Ken Auster, Ned Jacob and Skip Whitcomb.

5 Touch a Truck: Get behind the wheel of a fire truck, explore the inside of a mobile command truck, sit in a police cruiser, have one's face painted, enjoy snacks and more from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 1, at the JCC Early Learning Center at Congregation Sha'aray Shalom, 1112 Main St., Hingham. Cost is $5 per person, $20 family maximum and no charge for children younger than age 1. Proceeds benefit the JCC Early Learning Center Playground Project.

sic, many great raffle items, and carnival concessions. The proceeds from this event help to fund scholarships for those in need, provide extracurricular activities for the children, and allow for new curriculum materials that will enrich our children's educational experience for years to come.

Carriage House Nursery

School is owned and operated by the First Parish in Cohasset and is made up of a Pre-K Enrichment classroom, two Preschool classrooms, and one Toddler classroom. Its curriculums create a wonderful early education environment where children can grow, explore and learn in a fun and loving environment.

A better way to pay. A better way to save.

If you're looking for a better way to consolidate debt, pay for home improvements, tuition, a new boat or that vacation you've been dreaming about, we have your solution. With rates near historic lows, there's never been a better time to take advantage of a Home Equity Line of Credit from Crescent Credit Union.

We're offering an introductory rate of 1.99% APR for a full 18 months, followed by a variable Prime Rate¹ for the life of the line thereafter. And unlike some of the big banks, at Crescent, there are no closing costs², no annual fees and no points!

Limited time offer.

Act now! Apply at www.crescentcredit.org, call Debi O'Donnell at 508-596-5460 or visit us at 85 Pond Street (Route 228) in Norwell. We also offer options for a fixed-term Home Equity Loan, also known as a Second Mortgage. Just ask for more information!

*To get the fixed introductory APR (Annual Percentage Rate) shown, you must take a minimum $20,000 draw on the line at closing. If a minimum $20,000 draw is not taken at closing, a rate of 2.49% APR will apply. The introductory rate will be in effect for the first 18 billing cycles after the line is opened. Thereafter, the rate, including the rate on any existing account balance, will convert to a variable rate APR based on the Wall Street Journal "Prime Rate" published on the last day of the billing cycle (3.25% as of 03/31/14). Maximum APR is 18%. All APRs shown assume a maximum combined loan-to-value ratio of 75%. Valid for 1-4 family owner occupied properties or single family second homes. Subject to credit approval. Limited time offer may be withdrawn at anytime. Rates subject to change without notice. ² Trust review fees may apply when applicable. Reimbursement of fees totalling $300 if line is paid in full and discharged within 36 months of closing. Property insurance required. Flood insurance may be required. Other terms and conditions may apply. Consult your tax advisor regarding deductibility of interest. Membership eligibility requirements apply. If you are not a member of Crescent Credit Union, and you live or work in Suffolk, Plymouth, Bristol, Norfolk, Barnstable, Dukes and Nantucket counties, as well as certain cities and towns in Middlesex and Worcester counties (see www.crescentcredit.org for details), a $5 deposit to a Crescent Credit Union savings account will establish membership.

Hingham resident launches a new approach to luggage

Veteran business traveler and Hingham resident Anne Veilleux designed and created a travel solution which is lightweight, maneuverable and organized.

27 years of business trips while overseeing Project Managers; and watching frustrated and over-packed travelers in every airport all came together to result in Via. Project management experience taught Anne Veilleux, President of Via Travel Solution, how to make complicated projects simple.

During a 15 hour flight delay Anne wondered "why can't I purchase a single product to address the many travel needs?" Consumers can purchase each of the items independently but the products may not work together. The time to find each of these items at a reasonable cost is another consideration.

"Via is designed to work cohesively as one integrated carry-on travel solution."

Anne understands the importance of approaching design with the end-result in mind. Making certain that each of the components were created to communicate, collaborate and work cohesively was critical. By hiring quality control professionals, Via ensured reliability and satisfaction.

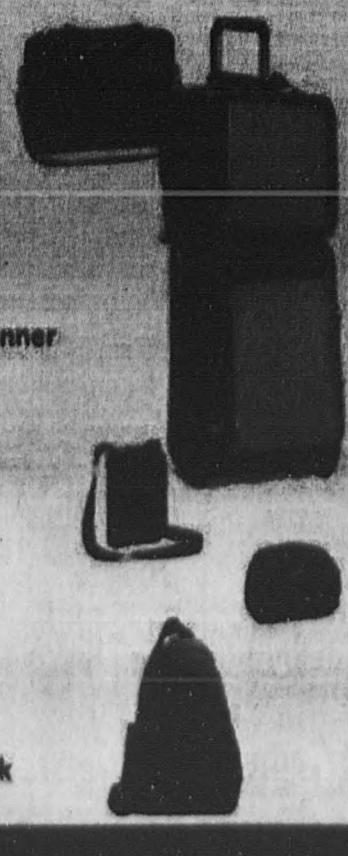

Bags, Essentials and Packing Lists are all included. Via's clients typically return and purchase one or even three more. People are using Via computer mobile daily at the office; two of the bags for overnight trips and the entire solution for one week or more.

The core principal is to take the stress out of travel. It is definitely serving its mission. Recently one traveler wrote, "glide in style with Via."

OUR VIEW

3 Things to consider this week

1 'Tis the season for kudos, congratulations, high fives and hats off to local graduates, dean's list and honor roll students from a range of colleges and private schools. In the weeks ahead, Around Town will be full of notices about Cohasset students reaching their goals and/or achieving honors for their efforts. If you are the parent of a student and do not see the college or school listed after several weeks - check in with us. The list can get long but eventually everyone gets in! Also, many colleges require a student to fill out a form that allows them to send information to the local paper. If your student does not appear - it is OK to send us the notice directly.

We enjoy sharing student accomplishments with our readers and want to be sure that everyone gets time to shine. In the Around Town column every week we include our contact information.

2 We hope, at the very least, the recent controversy over our "Bullet Vote" cartoon in which the Board of Selectmen threatened to write to the parent company of the Mariner to complain generated some after-dinner conversation about the First Amendment.

To be clear, it is perfectly OK to complain and sound off about cartoons, stories or anything else that we publish in the Mariner and our editorial pages reflect that. Where we think the selectmen (who are government officials) infringed on the First Amendment — and the free press clause that protects publication of information and opinions — is by what was stated at their meeting about what the letter should say, in short: that this would not be tolerated within our community.

As one of our readers told us this week, they were trying to "shut you up."

3 Anyone who attended Monday's Memorial Day observances would agree that Cohasset's tribute is moving and heartfelt. Seeing literally hundreds of local veterans marching in their uniforms as they approached the Healing Field and Veterans Memorial Park was a proud sight.

Not only do we owe a debt of gratitude to all those who served and to the many who died in service of our country — but also special thanks to the Wigmoes: Tom, Deirdre and Steve, whose energy and commitment, in our view, are the impetus that pulls it all together. They would be the first to thank all the others who are involved. It takes continued dedication to ensure the town's observances are of such a high standard.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Both forms of speech protected

I read, with interest, the article "Board Upset" in last week's Mariner.

The article asserts that the Board meeting ended with "what could be called an assault on the First Amendment," because the Selectmen complained about a cartoon published in the Cohasset Mariner.

I don't believe that condemning what someone said (or printed or drew) is an "assault" on the First Amendment. An assault would have been if the Selectmen had attempted to censor the cartoonist in future.

The Board had a right to complain, just as the cartoonist had a right to draw a cartoon that offended them (and others). Both forms of speech are protected by the First Amendment.

Story misses the point

Your front-page editorial "Board Upset" concerning the criticism of the "bullet vote" cartoon completely misses the point. No one questions the Constitutional right of the Mariner to print material, which is clearly offensive and demeans the service of our elected officials. The question is one of judgment and good taste, particularly in a community newspaper. Just because you can say or print something, doesn't mean you should.

Lack of communication at fault

On May 21st, the School committee discussed that only one day out of school will be up for future discussion. Future trips will be more scrutinized. Jeanne Astino was school committee chairman at the time the Europe trip was approved. She stated at the May 21st school committee that this was not the trip that was approved! This trip should have gone back for approval when seven teachers were going to be attending. I don't know where the idea of canceling the future trips came from. It was the lack of communication home between teachers and parents, administration and parents that was disappointing.

During the trip, there were only two subs hired and one of them was fired, leaving a classroom unattended and a head count. This is clearly was not enough coverage. The faculty at CMHS is 30, with at least 10 out. The remaining teachers were watching over extra classrooms plus their own for 90 minutes at a time due to block scheduling.

The ripple effects of this trip were far reaching.

It is not the mission statement of CMHS to provide the trips of a lifetime for a few, but to educate all. No substitute or lesson plan can provide the same quality learning experience as actually having your teacher in his/her classroom for four days.

Something we all can agree about

Monday, I observed my last Memorial Day Observances in Cohasset. That makes 30. All have been inspiring; each year is better and dearer than the previous.

In most communities, participation has lessened as the number of living veterans has dwindled. Not so in Cohasset. Participation and attendance on Memorial Day has grown. The Healing Field has become iconic.

Briefly, I was your Veterans' Agent. Unlike most veterans' agents, I did not need to organize observances for Memorial Day weekend and Veterans' Day. Tom Wigmore coordinated those labor-intensive efforts. Do not kid yourself, those observances do not just happen; they take year-round planning and coordination. But wait, what about maintaining the flagging of the five Cohasset cemeteries and responding to requests for assistance from veterans and their families?

Who makes sure those 2,000 veterans graves are flagged - Tom? Who quietly and discreetly handles numerous requests for assistance - Tom? I think Tom lives in Hingham, but does that really matter? Thank you Hingham, he belongs to us. Who should be the 2015 Cohasset Citizen of the Year? - Tom.

Election laws bill sent to Governor

Rep. Garrett Bradley, D-Hingham, joined his colleagues in the Legislature to pass a comprehensive election laws bill that will authorize early voting for biennial state elections starting in 2016. With the Governor's final approval, Massachusetts will become the 33rd state in the nation to allow early voting. The bill also creates an online voter registration system and will allow 16- and 17-year-olds to pre-register to vote in the Commonwealth for the first time.

"This bill modernizes our election system and brings Massachusetts in line with 33 other states by allowing early voting to take place," said Bradley. In addition, pre-registration of 16- and 17-year-olds and online voter registration, along with other significant reforms passed today, will enhance voter access and increase participation in the electoral process. I believe voters with multiple work and family obligations will appreciate being able to vote at a time that fits their busy schedule."

Early voting for biennial state elections will begin 11 business days before an election and end at the close of the polls two business days before the election. The Secretary of State will disseminate regulations regarding the process for establishing additional early voting locations and for applying for, receiving, separating, compiling, recording and securing early voter ballots.

The bill requires the Secretary to create an online voter registration system as well as an online tool where voters can check their voter registration status and inform them of their polling place. Any voter registered in a political designation that does not run a candidate on the ballot now will be considered un-enrolled for the purposes of the primary and will receive a ballot of a political party of one's choosing.

G'day, mates! Reporting from 'Oz' again....

ELLE KENNEDY

You probably know that kangaroos live in Australia, but did you know a young kangaroo is called a joey? How about koalas and wombats? You will find these unusual animals here in Australia! They are all marsupials, which means that after they are first born – about 31 to 36 days – they climb instinctively right into the mother's front pouch to nurse and develop further for about a year.

Did you know that koalas are not bears at all? They have two thumbs on their front paws, good for holding on to tree trunks and climbing. Not only do they live in eucalyptus (gum trees), but their main source of food is the eucalyptus leaves. Right now, koalas are listed "vulnerable to extinction." That means the number of koalas are fast decreasing. I have heard this is mainly because their habitats are being destroyed by people chopping down trees to build more buildings, and also because of fires, climate change and diseases. Koalas sleep during the day, so you can usually spot them in a eucalyptus tree with their legs dangling on a branch in the warm sun.

What about the kookaburra, have you ever heard the Australian tune

"...Kookaburra sits in the old gum tree. Merry, merry king of the bush is he. Laugh, Kookaburra, Laugh." Kookaburras are birds that nest in hollow trees or termite mounds. They make a loud, long call that sounds like laughing – and it really does! You usually hear their harsh cry – or laugh – at dawn or dusk. In fact, we have one living outside our house and I can tell you that are very loud! The kookaburra is part of the kingfisher family, but does not eat fish. Instead they snack on large insects, small reptiles and amphibians.

What's a wombat? Two types of wombats live in Australia today: The hairy-nosed wombat, which likes dry open spaces, and the common wombat that prefers wetter forested areas. They can grow to almost 4 feet in length and weigh up to 79 pounds. Wombats sometimes build their burrows under houses or fences. The burrow can up to 98 feet long and several feet deep. Wow! When wombats want something to munch, they sometimes travel more than a mile and half a night, looking for food. Wombats spend three to eight hours a night grazing on their favorite food, native grasses such as tussocky (snow grass). They also eat sedges (grass plants) and the base of shrubs and trees. It may not sound like the best food to you, but to a wombat it is everything!

Now that you have read a little about the odd animals in Australia, why not come and see them up close and very real!

GROWING ON THE FARM

Drawing teens into the field

JON BELBER

For a 12 to 15 year old, many Saturdays are taken up with homework, perhaps some yard work, a job, a sail when the weather warms, practice for lacrosse, soccer, basketball and plenty of computer explorations. This spring for six consecutive Saturdays at the farm, one young man has taken part of his day to sow seeds, sift compost, dodge bees and space potatoes for a future late Spring and Summer harvest. The Early Young Farmer Program at the farm is an attempt to draw young teens to the fields, the garden and the hard, satisfying work and toil of farming. Farming though does not come easily or quickly. The arugula seeds take 48 days. The potatoes with sprouting eyes take a couple months. Lettuce needs time, space and monitoring (read water, sun, soil) to germinate and form into a lettuce head. Carrots, sowed directly in the ground, need warm soil and patience before hopefully pulling out a fresh, dirty carrot almost three months later. And finally, as it is time to transplant the summer stalwarts peppers, eggplant and tomatoes, the fruits of these plants' labor will arrive in mid-August. So much work, with so much waiting and unknown results during a six-week time period.

In order to reap what has been sown, one has to put

This waiting and attention to detail may seem like a lot to ask of a teenager or a farmer for that matter. Many of us, teens too, seek instant gratification, quick replies and immediate answers.

those seeds in the ground, in the seed tray and tend and cultivate the plants. This waiting and attention to detail may seem like a lot to ask of a teenager or a farmer for that matter.

Many of us, teens too, seek instant gratification, quick replies and immediate answers. After all, a google search, a call on a hand held phone or an inquiry on a computer gives us the information we desire right away. Not so with plants. Compost too takes time. Weeding can be a daily, ongoing, seemingly never-ending task. Peas need trellising. Tomatoes need staking. Carrots need thinning. Potatoes need hillings. Oh my, how can we lure more teens to farming? How else can I sell the hard work and vulnerable-to-weather task and skill of farming to young men and women?

The young farmers who come to the farm are certainly unique and wonderful. They may be engaged in a variety of after school drama productions. They may already be jugglers of soccer balls. They may already devote hours to creative writing, musical musings and Irish step dancing, or they may not have a lot going on after the school bell rings. But come late Spring and Summer, teens will be able to come to the farm on a weekly basis (or more often, if they like) to harvest and bring produce to the farmers market in Cohasset.

They can sell the produce to customers and take part in the vendor-customer relationship. For more than 10 summers, the young farmers gain insight to the hard work that is part of farming. They will not fully understand the seasonal ups and downs of farming. They will not completely comprehend the pressures of budgets, spreadsheets and bottom line of growing and selling produce to the public. But for a week in the summer, they will push away the rocks, reach into the soil and figure out how to carefully harvest a fresh farm product. And this spring, one young farmer is carefully and thoughtfully sowing the seeds for the future. He is taking a little time away from other interests and pastimes. For any young farmer, may the pursuit match the result and satisfaction. Perhaps others will join us in this quixotic endeavor to sow, reap and grow. There is plenty to do, both immediately and for the long term.

New Red Lion Inn manager appointment

Town Manager Chris Senior said that the Red Lion Inn's new manager is to be appointed during the next Board of Selectmen meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, June 3.

Heinrich Lutjens of Belmont, Mass. was recently hired to take the helm after general manager John Cowden quit his position unexpectedly on May 6, the same day the inn was scheduled for a liquor license hearing.

Senior explained Tuesday that the Board of Selectmen must act on the change of corporate officers, which affects the inn's liquor license. However, the town manager added that the Red Lion is "fine" according to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission (ABCC).

"They are moving forward and taking steps," said Senior, adding that the police department is conducting a background check on Lutjens.

Kids Tri'ing to Find a Cure

JOHN MCSHEFFREY

The old African proverb states, "It takes a village to raise a child." Over the past few months our family has learned how true this is and there's no village we'd rather be in than Cohasset.

February 27, 2014

I was sitting in rush-hour traffic and looking out at the falling snow and the sea of gridlocked brake lights in front of me at the interchange of 128 and the Mass Pike, and thought to myself, "it can't get much worse than this." My phone rang; it was my wife calling to tell me about our 11-year-old daughter's annual physical at Cohasset Pediatrics. I was wrong.

"The doctor thinks Tyler has Type 1 Diabetes," my wife said. "They want another test, but they think its diabetes." Immediately, tears welled up in my eyes, but I soon realized that I didn't even know what that meant. Over the next few days, I would find out that it meant that Tyler's life, and subsequently our lives had just changed forever.

That was a little more than three months ago and we continue to adjust to our "new normal". Today, Tyler's daily routine includes testing blood five or six times followed up with various doses of insulin every time she eats. Each meal has become a math project and gone are the freedoms of eating fun foods, impulsive schedules and stopping by a friend's house after school without coming home first. To say that it's been overwhelming would be a tremendous understatement, but we'll be the first to tell you that it could be worse.

What's made our transition more tolerable has been the incredible support from the great people of Cohasset.

From close friends to total strangers who've learned of Tyler's condition, we are experiencing the kindness and generosity one truly hopes for when they look for places to live. One person in particular, Deer Hill School nurse Mary Mastromarino, has been incredible. For years Mrs. Mastromarino had been Tyler's personal nemesis, warmly thwarting our daughter's repeated/dramatic efforts to get released from school early. Today she and Tyler are as close as can be, and Mary has gone out of her way to assure us all that she is taking care of Tyler at school. Mary has been a true gift and given our family tremendous peace of mind.

Within days of her diagnosis, Tyler's close friends, wanting to help decided that they were going to raise money.

High on enthusiasm but short on details, we asked if they could hold off until we had a better understanding of what Tyler was facing and what could be done. In this, we were introduced to Bill Burnett and his effort to host the first ever Cohasset Junior Triathlon. Bill's desire to help Tyler was incredible, and within a few days we had our focus – introducing The Tyabetics (that's Tyler + diabetes) fundraising team!

Okay – so here's the deal.

On Saturday July 12th, The Tyabetics will be one of many teams partaking in the Junior Triathlon at the Cohasset swim center. Children between the ages of 7 – 14 will swim 2-6 lengths of the pool, bike 1 or 2 miles, and run .5 or 1 mile (depending on the age group). Kids can participate as individuals or as part of a relay team.

All kids entering the Triathlon as part of The Tyabetics will get a free T-shirt and be eligible to win baseball tickets and other prizes (insert shameless request here – if you or your company have a fun prize that you think a kid would like and would be interested in donating to the Tyabetics, please drop me an email). Kids will be able to compete in the event at a pace that is comfortable for them and portion of each entry will go to support the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF).

Signing Up

If your child goes to Deer Hill, there's a good chance that they were offered a red "Tri 4 Ty 2014" wristband by a gaggle of enthusiastic girls wearing wicked cool t-shirts and received a form on how to join or support Team Tyabetics. That said, if your child is like ours, you'll probably never see the wristband or the order form. But that's another story for another day.

So for all of you whose kids may have lost the form, or don't have kids at Deer Hill and are interested in signing up, it's really easy. If you are on Facebook, look up "The Tyabetics" and find the link for the Cohasset Jr. Triathlon.

If you're not on Facebook, just Google "Cohasset Junior Triathlon" and click register. When prompted, enter "The Tyabetics" as the fundraising team.

If you'd like to support The Tyabetics by donating directly to the JDRF, simply Google "ImAthlete The Tyabetics" and click on the link.

You don't have to know Tyler or even be from Cohasset to be part of the team. Any child from grades 1 – 8 can join. Baseball, lacrosse and soccer coaches, challenge your players to sign up. Families reach out to your cousins and friends from other towns and invite them to come and be part of the fun. Let's see if we can get a sea of red shirts there on July 12th.

By the way, the Tyabetics isn't the only kid-based triathlon team working to raise money for JDRF. On June 29th, a team led by Cohasset 7th grader Emma Stevens will be competing in the Cohasset Triathlon. Emma has been fighting Type 1 diabetes since she was 8 years old and she and her mom have been tremendously supportive to Tyler and her overwhelmed parents (well, overwhelmed Dad, Tyler's mom has been pretty freaking amazing when it comes to her ability to focus on all the details).

Much like The Tyabetics, "Team Emma's Effort" is raising money for JDRF and would love your support. If you are interested in supporting Emma, Google "Team Emma's Effort" and scroll through the Fundraiser Finder to find the team name.

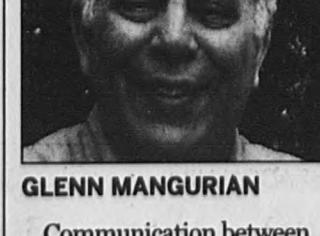

Whether it's Emma competing on June 29th or hundreds of kids competing on July 12th, encouraging and supporting these kids can make a difference. Let me tell you as sincerely as I can, it's beyond words heart breaking seeing the bruises and bumps on my daughter's arms from the many shots of insulin. Simply typing these words gets me choked up. I truly wouldn't wish the last three months on anyone – except for the part of feeling the kindness and support of so many wonderful people around town.

As always thanks for reading and on behalf of my amazing little girl and the many kids like her, I sincerely thank you for any consideration for support.

PUSHING THE EDGE

Can you speak with your thumbs?

GLENN MANGURIAN

Communication between people is and has been an essential part of life. As technology changed so did our forms of communication. The smoke signal is one of the oldest forms of long-distance communication. That form of messaging goes back to ancient Greeks and Chinese.

Let's fast forward to the 1960s when the telephone became ubiquitous. Does anyone remember the "While you were out" pink slip messages? It was a very inexpensive way to convey messages missed.

That practice got replaced by voice mail in the late 1980s. Then we had the Internet and people predicted that email would replace voice mail. That didn't happen. Rather, cell phones allowed us to have both – email and voicemail.

Most of our children were born after email and voicemail were established forms of business communications. As my children became teenagers, they wanted their own private way to talk to their friends. We used to call it the "children's phone" but my kids preferred IM-ing through AOL on their computers. As the price of cell phones came down, all children wanted their own cell phones so they could talk to their friends away from computers. That seemed like nirvana but we didn't anticipate the "smart phone." So here we are in 2014 where our children have no landline telephone. They use their smart phones for most things except talking. You see, they prefer texting with their thumbs.

They can text with their thumbs faster than I can talk. Can you speak with your thumbs? I can't. Well, here's today's sign of the coming apocalypse. A British cell phone carrier has introduced "thumbells," a tiny, weight that can be used to strengthen your thumbs for texting. I'm not making this up. This sounds like "thumbells" for "dumbells" to me.

Maybe the next form of communication will be through thoughts – telepathic communication. Apple can develop a headband and call it iThought. You heard it here first.

MEMORIAL DAY SPEECH

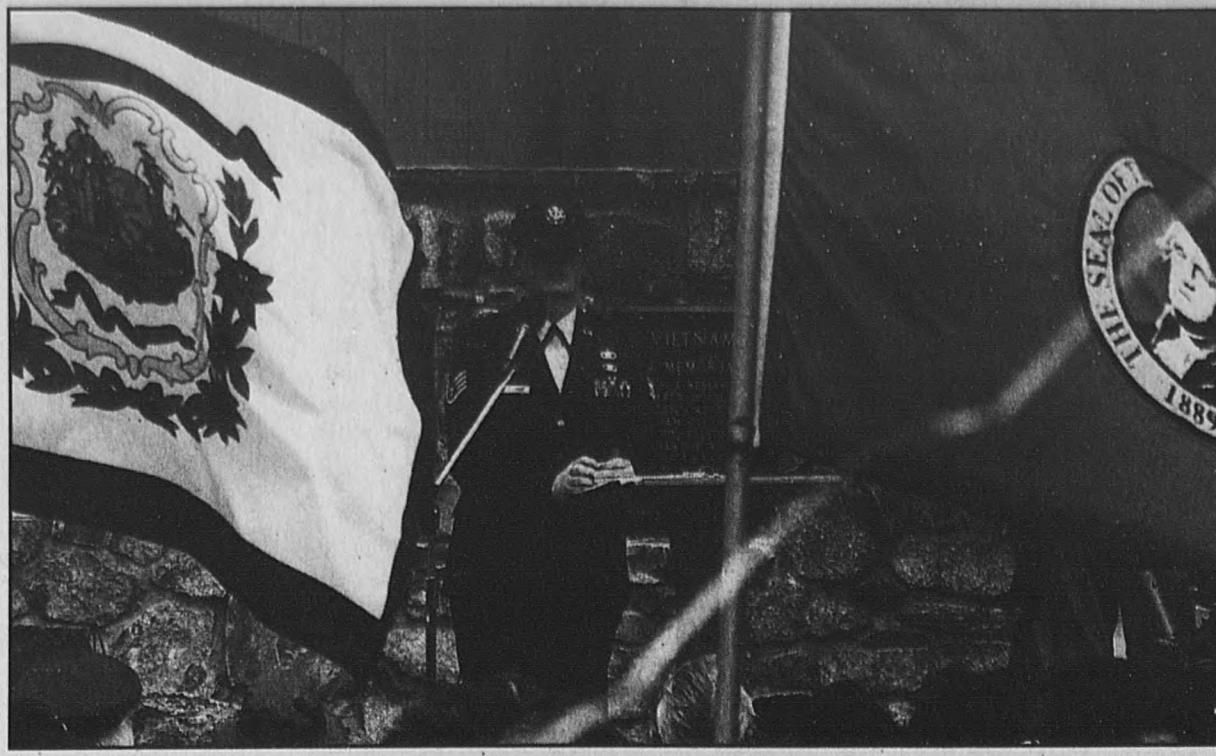

Never forgetting the sacrifices of the fallen

Staff Sergeant Joanna Hamilton Montanari, US Air Force, delivered the following address on Monday.

Good afternoon. I would like to start with thanking the American Legion Post #118 for asking me to be here today. I am thrilled to be here as I remember attending this Memorial Day remembrance as a child with my parents many times. However, in those days I was here as a flower girl so to be here in this capacity is such an honor.

After living in a few places over the past few years I have noticed that a lot of small towns pick one holiday to do a big organized parade, or festival for. Usually it was Fourth of July, in one town I can remember it being St. Patrick's Day. I remember thinking how extraordinary it is that the little town of Cohasset, Massachusetts, chose Memorial Day to be their big parade. Once separated from home I realized that I was fortunate to grow up in a town that was extremely patriotic. That in the end was probably a large part of why I decided to enlist in the Air Force after graduating high school.

This weekend means a lot to many people. However, it has a lot of different meanings for people these days. When Memorial Day was made into a national holiday in 1868 by General John Logan, his intention was not for it to be a day to mark the beginning of summer. A day to put the boat in the water, take the cover off the pool and get the grill out of the garage. It was a national day of remembrance where wreaths were placed on the graves of fallen soldiers.

So for those of you who are here today I thank you for taking a little time out of what really is a fun weekend, to remember the true meaning of this time.

I thought I'd share with you a story today and why I believe this weekend is so important. When I was stationed in Ohio another Airman who had grown up near my base but had been stationed elsewhere was killed by an IED in Afghanistan. Many of us from the base attended his funeral as it was local. I remember at the funeral, the most heartbreaking part being his young son at the time. Obviously unaware of what was going on at the time, he just clung to his mother and uncles and grandfather. Well that young boy is probably 10 or 11 now. Him and lot of children like him are now of an age where they can now understand and comprehend what happened to their father or mother. So, days like this are important for children and families like that so they can grieve and now understand that people appreciate the sacrifice of their loved one. That young boy does not remember his father's funeral, but he does have the chance now that he is older to see a Memorial Day observation and know that his father and his sacrifice is not forgotten.

As I thought about this day a lot I found myself thinking what could I offer you to learn and appreciate about our Armed Services and this remembrance. I wondered what words I could leave you with that have a profound effect on you. Now, this was over several months I would think about this and then the answer finally hit me. I as one person don't have any words to offer that could truly affect you. I honestly believe nothing I can say is going to leave you thinking about our fallen Sailors, Soldiers, Airmen and Marines. But what I found myself thinking about are the inner monologues of the veterans standing here.

This day is bigger than me, bigger than them, bigger than us. It is bigger than one can explain. I found myself wondering what kinds of memories would come to these veterans today. As they think of those that have fallen that they remember. Those they perhaps have never mentioned to their spouses, their children or their friends.

Memorial Day is a day to remember the great sacrifices and recount the heroic tales of the fallen. But for many fallen, these stories aren't recounted and they remain in the memories of those who witnessed it, but choose to never speak of it again.

So, I want to thank you again for being here. Because your presence shows these men (and women) that not only are their sacrifices not forgotten, but the sacrifices of those they remember is never going to be forgotten. So please, if you get a chance, shake their hands, thank them. Take care and thank you.

THE HOUSE AND SENATE: Beacon Hill Roll Call records the votes of local representatives on one roll call and local senators on 11 from the week of May 19-23.
CHARTER SCHOOLS (H 4091)
House 114-35, approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would gradually lift the cap on charter schools in some Massachusetts communities. Lifting the cap would be allowed only in the lowest performing 10 percent of districts that are also at or near the current cap for the 2017-2018 academic year. The measure also requires troubled schools that are in danger of becoming underperforming schools to be designated as "challenge schools" and to develop two-year turnaround plans.

Supporters said the bill provides a very responsible and limited increase in the charter school caps and would only affect six districts. They noted it would also give a second chance to low-performing schools by allowing them to develop turnaround plans before being declared underperforming.

Opponents said the cap should not be lifted at all. They argued that these experimental schools have questionable performance records and are draining desperately needed funds and many of the best students from regular public schools.

(A "Yes" vote is for the bill. A "No" vote is against it.)

APPROVE $36.4 BILLION FISCAL 2015 STATE BUDGET (S 4)

Senate 39-1, following two days and nights of debate, approved an estimated $36.4 billion fiscal 2015 state budget. During debate, the Senate added a bottom line of $130 million to the price tag. The House has approved a different version of the budget. A House-Senate conference committee will work out a compromise version and send it to Gov. Deval Patrick.

Supporters said the budget is a fiscally responsible and balanced one that funds important programs to the best of the state's ability during this difficult economy.

The lone opponent said the budget is fiscally irresponsible and is based on millions of dollars in taxes working families can't afford. He noted it also continues a trend of inadequate local aid to cities and towns.

(A "Yes" vote is for the budget. A "No" vote is against it.)

SALES TAX-FREE HOLIDAY (S 4)

Senate 7-32, rejected an amendment allowing consumers to buy most products that cost under $2,500 on Saturday, August 9, and Sunday, August 10, without paying the state's 6.25 percent sales tax.

(A "Yes" vote is for the tax-free holiday. A "No" vote is against it.)

REPEAL INDEXING OF GAS TAX (S 4)

Senate 8-31, rejected an amendment that would repeal the indexing of the gas tax to inflation.

Supporters said this indexing amounts to a permanent regular increase in the gas tax. They argued that future legislators, not some faceless, unaccountable economic index, should decide whether to raise the gas tax. They noted that if this index had been in place in 1992, the gas tax today would be 40 cents per gallon instead of 24 cents per gallon.

Opponents of repeal said the indexing is a fair indicator of whether the gas tax should be hiked. They noted the indexing is essential to ensure that there is sufficient money to pay for any rise in the costs of the materials that are used for road and bridge repairs and other transportation projects. They argued that future legislators can always propose decreases in the gas tax.

(A "Yes" vote is for repealing indexing. A "No" vote is against repeal and favors indexing.)

REDUCE INCOME TAX RATE TO 5 PERCENT (S 4)

Senate 5-34, rejected an amendment reducing the income tax from 5.3 percent to 5 percent over three years.

Amendment supporters said that voters in 2000 approved a gradual reduction of that year's 5.85 percent tax to five percent by January 2003, and it is time for the Legislature to honor that vote.

They argued that the billions of dollars saved by taxpayers will be pumped back into the economy.

Opponents said the state simply cannot afford to lose billions of dollars in revenue that will result in severe cuts to very important programs like education, local aid, mental health and substance abuse.

(A "Yes" vote is for the reduction. A "No" vote is against it.)

REPEAL "ESTATE/DEATH" TAX (S 4)

Senate 4-34, rejected an amendment that would repeal Massachusetts' estate tax, also known as the death tax — a tax on the value of the decedent's estate before distribution to any beneficiary. The first $1 million is exempt from this tax and the tax on anything over $1 million is a graduated one that according to the Department of Revenue's website ranges from .8 percent to 16 percent.

(A "Yes" vote is for repeal of the tax. A "No" vote is against repeal and favors the tax.)

PAY SALES TAX ON ACTUAL SALE PRICE OF CELL PHONE (S 4)

Senate 13-25, rejected an amendment that would require consumers to pay the state's 6.25 sales tax only on the price they actually pay for a cell phone.

Under a current regulation by the Department of Revenue, the sales tax on the purchase of a bundled package — a cellular phone discounted because it is sold along with the customer's one-, two- or three-year commitment to the seller's calling plan — is based on the wholesale price that the store paid for it, not on the price actually paid by the consumer. That wholesale price is almost always higher than the consumer paid for the phone.

For example, a phone has a suggested retail price of $500, but the store purchased it wholesale for $200 and then sold it at a discount for $50 because it came with a service agreement. Under current regulations, the state's 6.25 percent sales tax would be based on the $200, not on the $50 the customer actually paid. In that case, the retailer may choose to pay the additional sales tax, share it with the consumer or pass it entirely on to the consumer.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment calculating the tax based on the price the consumer paid. A "No" vote is against the amendment.)

EARNED INCOME TAX CREDIT (S 4)

Senate 7-32, rejected an amendment that would increase the earned income tax credit for low-income working families with children living at home from 15 percent to 30 percent of the federal credit. The credit is applied toward the taxpayer's liability, and if it exceeds the liability, the taxpayer receives the excess credit as a refund.

Amendment supporters said this increased credit will help thousands of low-income working families who are struggling to make ends meet and will result in many of them paying little or no state income tax.

Some amendment opponents said the increase would cost the state an estimated $130 million, which it cannot afford. Others said they might support the idea but that the proposal is a major change and should be filed as a separate bill that would go through the normal legislative process including public hearings.

(A "Yes" vote is for the increase. A "No" vote is against it.)

TRANSPARENCY (S 4)

Senate 16-23, rejected an amendment that would require the state treasurer to post on its Open Checkbook website the name and the amount that the state has paid out in any severance and settlement agreements involving state employee disputes.

Amendment supporters said the average annual payout by the state averages more than $11 million. They argued that state officials often ignore public record laws by stonewalling legitimate requests, charging exorbitant fees and making far more redactions than necessary.

Amendment opponents said a Senate committee is already working on a similar bill. They argued the idea should be considered as a separate piece of legislation that would go through the normal legislative process including public hearings.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment. A "No" vote is against the amendment.)

USE SURPLUS FOR LOCAL AID TO CITIES AND TOWNS (S 4)

Senate 7-32, rejected an amendment that would require one-half of any state surplus tax revenue remaining at the end of this fiscal year on June 30 to be distributed to cities and towns as additional local aid. The amendment would cap the amount at $50 million.

Amendment supporters said this would promote fiscal responsibility and ensure that the Legislature does not squander any budget surplus. They argued that struggling cities and towns need this excess money.

Amendment opponents said it is irresponsible to promise any portion of a surplus to cities and towns without knowing what the state's financial situation will be at that time. They argued that the amendment would tie the hands of the Legislature.

(A "Yes" vote is for the amendment requiring that up to $50 million of surplus revenue go to local aid. A "No" vote is against the amendment.)

REVIEW ALL STATE CREDIT CARDS (S 4)

Senate 7-32, rejected an amendment requiring the state auditor to conduct an audit of every state-funded credit card distributed by state agencies and quasi-independent agencies.

Amendment supporters said there have been problems involving misuse of credit cards. They argued it is time to crack down and ensure the cards are not abused.

Amendment opponents said the amendment is unnecessary. They noted State Auditor Suzanne Bump has already made great progress in addressing this issue.

(A "Yes" vote is for the review of all credit cards. A "No" vote is against the review.)

WELFARE CHANGES (S 4)

Senate 12-17, rejected an amendment making changes in the state's welfare and Electronic Benefits Card (EBT Card) systems. Provisions include requiring newly issued or reissued EBT cards to have a photograph; terminating the benefits to any recipient who fails to notify the welfare department of a change of address; establishing that an absence from the state for more than 30 days means the recipient's Massachusetts residency has been abandoned; prohibiting the cards from being used to buy televisions, stereos, video games or consoles at rent-to-own stores; and penalizing store owners who knowingly sell prohibited items to a recipient.

Supporters said this long overdue overhaul of the welfare system is firm, fair and honest and will crack down on welfare abuse while offering many poor people a road to economic independence.

They noted the House and Senate in November approved two different versions of a reform bill that have been stuck in a conference committee since then.

Amendment opponents urged senators to wait until a conference committee has hashed out a compromise version on which each branch can vote.

(A "Yes" vote is for the restrictions. A "No" vote is against them.)

MEMORIAL DAY

Parade, observances make Cohasset special

By Mary Ford
mford@wickedlocal.com

East to West, North to South – cities and towns across America shared a common theme on Monday: the annual observance of Memorial Day.

But, it is safe to say, that while most celebrations share an equal depth of feeling – no place does it better or more poignantly than right here in Cohasset.

Veterans by the hundreds in Cohasset proudly march in their service uniforms and this Memorial Day parade was no exception.

While 50 state flags fluttered in the breeze joined by hundreds of American flags in the Field of Honor just across Border Street, an air of anticipation filled the crowd as all ages waited for the parade of veterans and other marchers to reach the harbor.

Among those waiting was Gino DiGirolamo, affectionately known as Mr. D, when he taught and coached in town for 30 years. DiGirolamo, a former U.S. Marine, was proudly wearing a Marine Corps cap. He knew some of the Vietnam veterans who were marching when they were boys. He also knew some of the Cohasset boys who were killed in that war.

Genevieve Good, who is almost 98, sat in a wheelchair just across from the panel on the Veterans Memorial that includes the name of her late husband, Frederick L. Good, Jr., who served in the Navy during World War II. She was covered with a red blanket to keep her warm and an American flag was firmly anchored to her chair.

Commander of the George H. Mealy American Legion Post Steve Wigmore, his son, Tom Wigmore, who is commander of the Sons of the American Legion Post, and Tom's wife Deirdre Wigmore of the ladies auxiliary at the post – all spoke and welcomed the veterans.

Perhaps some of the most moving remarks came from Richard Hynes, a Vietnam veteran, who is commander of the Cohasset VFW Post. He talked about how he and his fellow veterans were greeted by protesters, not parades when they returned home. He said it was not until he visited his mother-in-law's fifth-grade class in Hingham, which greeted him with welcome home signs and a standing ovation, did he feel it was good to be home.

Army Veteran Joe Hamilton, who traditionally reads the poem "In Flanders Field" during the ceremony – also had the pleasure of introducing his daughter, US Air Force Staff Sergeant Joanna Hamilton Montanari, who was the keynote speaker of the day.

Montanari recalled attending Memorial Day remembrances as a child but at that time she participated as one of the flower girls. "To be here in this capacity, is such an honor," she said.

Montanari thanked those in attendance for showing the veterans that their sacrifices are not forgotten and the sacrifices of those they remember will never be forgotten.

HONORING OUR VETERANS

Officials praise Memorial Day

By Erin Dale
edale@wickedlocal.com

Cohasset's Town Manager and Board of Selectmen all gave glowing reviews of Monday's Memorial Day events.

In Cohasset, Memorial Day is celebrated not only on the day of, but with a week's worth of activities, from special services to concerts and dinners.

The tradition has been going strong in Cohasset for decades, led by the Wigmore family. Husband and wife team Tom and Deirdre Wigmore, who respectively head up the Sons of the American Legion and the Women's American Legion Auxiliary, have been spearheading the celebration for years. Tom's father, Steve, is the commander of the George H. Mealy American Legion Post 118.

From the Healing Field's spectacular flag display to the annual Rusty Skippers Concert at the Veterans Memorial Park, a Historical Society veterans reception and breakfast for parade marchers at the American Legion post, Cohasset always goes all out.

Town Manager Chris Senior, who started his position in January, said Tuesday that he enjoyed his first Memorial Day in Cohasset, saying that the event "showed off the best of Cohasset and its veterans."

Senior was particularly impressed with the volunteers that put the events on – "The fact that it was done so well is a testament to the town."

Senior shared during the Tuesday night Board of Selectmen meeting that he found the parade to be "quite the moving event," and a chance to reflect on the servicemen and women "who gave their all and their lives."

The town manager said that his parents were in town for the event and "very much enjoyed it."

Selectmen chair Diane Kennedy said that she thought Senior's father was "wonderful" when he shared a few remarks, joking that he came to Cohasset to take his son back home, adding that "I don't think he's going to leave."

Selectman Kevin McCarthy said that due to the amount of memorial activities all week long, "You don't need to eat or exercise except at the events."

Especially during the parade, McCarthy added, noting that he and his fellow selectmen walked six miles around town on Monday morning along with other parade marchers.

"It was a complete town-wide event," said McCarthy. "I can't say enough about everybody who participated."

Selectman Steve Gaumer shared that marching in Monday's parade was the "first time in my life I took part in a Memorial Day parade" as something other than a Boy Scout. Gaumer added that it was "humbling" to march alongside servicemen and women who "took an oath to protect the Constitution" enabling folks to live in freedom.

Selectman Martha Gjesteby said that she buys a flag every year in honor of a family member. Selectman Karen Quigley noted that while Cohasset's Memorial Day celebrations garner a lot of volunteers, "they do need help." More volunteers are needed to help take the flags down at the Healing Field on Saturday, May 31.

Kennedy closed the discussion by thanking everyone who participated in each event. "It was just a really special weekend."

Selectmen ok debt, cash management policies

The Board of Selectmen voted during the Tuesday, May 27 meeting to approve debt and cash management and investment policies presented by Treasurer Collector Paula Linhares.

The policies follow recommendations from an audit report and the town's management review, according to Linhares. Both documents encouraged the town's finance team to "put some kind of policy in place" in order to "keep things in control."

The treasurer collector said that the policies were also reviewed by the town's Advisory and Capital Budget committees.

Selectmen voted unanimously 4-0 to accept the policies. Next up – Linhares said that she is working on a "day-to-day" cash collecting policy and will have a draft for the selectmen to review during an upcoming meeting.

TOURNAMENT ROUNDUP

Skippers ready to rock Tournaments

Let the games begin

The Cohasset Mariner

The fall has been kind to Cohasset sports this season, as seven teams qualified for post-season play.

Of course there's a reason for it.

Hard work, dedication from players, coaches, parents and the Athletic Department that began well before the actual season started with off-season workouts, individual training, club sports and work ethic carried from one sport to another.

While it's almost impossible to say if a Skipper team is going to win a Sectional or even State championship, there are plenty of teams who can do it.

Here's a look at the tournament.

The action started yesterday with the girls lacrosse team (11-7-0) and their No. 4 seed hosting No. 5 Bourne (12-5-1) in the Division 2 South Sectional.

Results were unavailable at press time. For tournament results, follow @scifisportsguy and @CohassetSports on Twitter, or check back with Cohasset.wickedlocal.com before turning in for the night.

Brackets and results are also available on www.miaa.net.

Both @cohassetSports, the official and outstanding account run by Cohasset Athletic Director Ron Ford, and our Mariner sports @scifisportsguy also live tweet events with photos and updates from select games.

The girls have had outstanding contributions from the entire team this season. Of their seven losses, six were against teams ranked in the top 25 in Eastern Mass.

A win yesterday sets up a game against either No. 1 Apmonoquet (14-2-1) or No. 8 Fairhaven (8-7-1) in the semi-finals.

Also in action yesterday was the No. 2 seeded girls tennis team (15-3) hosting No. 15 Martha's Vineyard (8-8) in the first round of the Div. 3 South Sectional.

Dover-Sherborn (14-2) has the No. 1 seed in the bracket and would line up as a finals opponent if Cohasset wins through.

Either No. 7 Fairhaven (14-6) or No. 10 East Bridgewater (8-8) are potential quarterfinal opponents in the 15-team field.

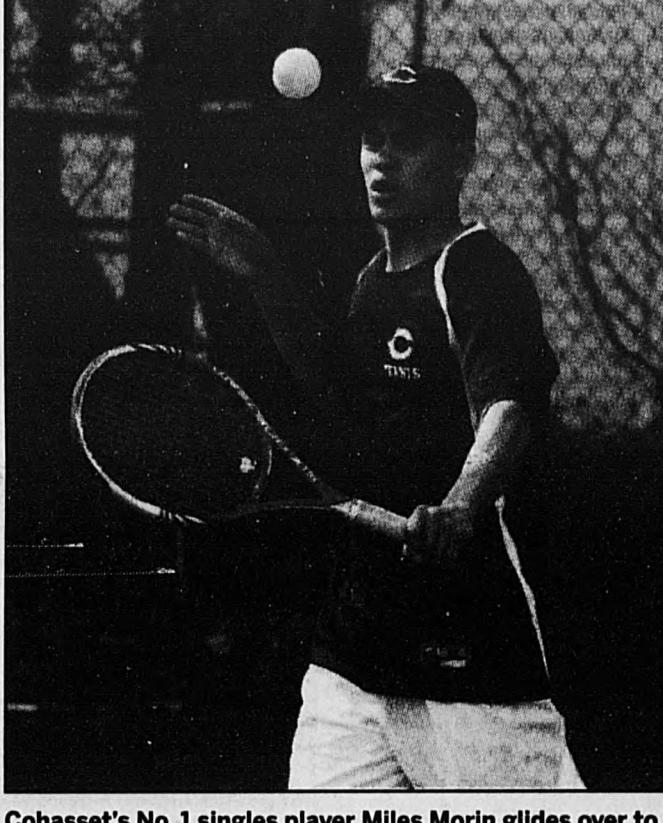

Let's not forget to wish Emma Davis good luck.

The stellar junior won her third South Sectional championship and will head to St. John's Shrewsbury on Saturday, June 14 to the State Semi-Finals/Finals to attempt to win her third State Championship.

Davis should also be a factor for the team, as her presence generally gives the rest of the team what seems like extra depth on a squad that runs deep.

The baseball team may have lost their Senior Day game to Mashpee in extra innings, but the Skippers (12-8) still finished strong enough to Cohasset's Mickey Barry gets a hand from teammates after scoring a run on Friday against Mashpee.

Thriller on the diamond

The Cohasset baseball team closed out the regular season with a thriller against Mashpee. Unfortunately for the Skippers, they came out on the wrong end of a 5-4 loss in eight innings, but there were plenty of highlights in the game for Cohasset, and many of them were caught on camera. Cohasset can let that one go now as they head into the MIAA Div. 4 South Sectional Tournament today.

Skipper pitcher Brendan O'Connell delivers against Mashpee on Friday. PHOTOS BY WILLIAM WASSERSUG

We don't normally point out mistakes by officials, mostly because they do a great job 99 percent of the time, but this one call was a miss as a Skipper runner easily beat the throw but was called out in the fourth inning. At the time Cohasset led 2-1 and the out ended the inning, rather than putting runners at first and third.

Cohasset's Tommy O'Brien slides safely into the plate on Friday against Mashpee.

Members of local skating club 'Silver Blades Skating School' brought home trophies and smiles from the final ice skating competition of the season during the 24rd ISI District 1 Championships this past weekend in Concord, MA. The championships include skaters from all of New England. Silver Blades, which skates out of Bavis Arena in Rockland, brought home a total of 23 medals, including 6 Gold, 7 Silver and 6 Bronze, for the club formed just two years ago.

Liz Shaughnessy, Skating Director for Silver Blades says, "the competitions are a great way for the skaters to learn to support and encourage each other....and to participate as a team, not just as an individual." Her 7 year old daughter, Grace, has been competing since age 2. "She just wants to skate with the 'big' girls and try to copy everything they do! As long as she is having fun, that's what counts".

For the 14 members of the team who competed, ranging in age from 6 to 17 years old, this competition was a chance to earn the title of "District Champion" in addition to earning points towards a team trophy. Lilly Wallingford, 10 years old of Cohasset, won her first District Championship title this year. When asked if she gets nervous before she skates, she replied, "well, a little while you're waiting to skate, but it is fun because you get to perform in front of your friends, family and other teammates, and everyone is clapping and cheering!" For a few members, this was only their second competition, but with the ISI World Championships coming to Marlboro, MA this summer, it certainly won't be their last!

The skaters will be competing with other skaters from around the world, as far away as the Phillipines, July 28 - August 3. But first they are back to work at the rink preparing for their Annual Ice Show "One Hit Wonders" on Saturday June 7 at 1 p.m.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children, at the door. This year's show will also feature guest skater, Gretchen Dolan (of Hingham), a National and International competitor in Pair Skating.

Local skaters included Jada Coward (Brockton), Andrew DeLuca (Rockland), Fiona Faherty (Norwell), Sabrina, Tatiana and Victoria Garvin (Hingham), Jasmine Lanata (Scituate), Bridget and Caitlin Patten (Hingham), Anna Ryan (Scituate), Grace Shaughnessy (Cohasset), Ashley Tai (Randolph), Lise Trulsson (Cohasset), and Lilly Wallingford (Hingham).

Silver Blades members also represent the US Figure Skating Club "Skating Club of Hingham", based out of Bavis Arena in Rockland, offering group instruction for all levels and ages. earn a No. 12 seed and a home game today at noon against No. 21 Bristol-Plymouth (6-13).

The Division 4 South Sectional is another crowded one, with 22 teams, led by 20-0 Pope John Paul.

Holbrook (16-4) is the No. 2 seed.

One hurdle for the Skippers is that after their noon showdown Friday, there's the prom Friday night, and a date with No. 5 Archbishop Williams (13-5), Saturday at 2 p.m. at Braintree High School if Cohasset wins today's game.

Other old friends in the Division 4 South are No. 6 Abington (14-6) and No. 17 Mashpee (11-11).

This particular bracket had been switched around a bit reportedly to avoid too many repeat league matchups in the early going.

Also on Saturday, the Cohasset-Hull Track and Field team will take the State Qualifiers to the Div. 4 East Meet at Durfee High School.

The meet starts at 9:30 a.m.

The boys, who finished 8-1 this season, have seven individuals running and three relays also qualified.

The girls (5-4 regular season) will bring eight athletes for individual events and two relays.

The boys lacrosse team is known as a definite contender for a title this season and have had plenty of time to rest up weary bones and any lingering injuries.

The South Shore League champions take their 15-4 record and No. 2 seed to Alumni Field on Sunday for a Div. 3 South Sectional matchup against either No. 7 Bishop Stang (13-5) or No. 10 Nantucket (13-7) in a quarterfinal. Admission to the game is $6, $4 for students.

Those teams played yesterday (results unavailable at press time).

The Sunday game time was not set at press time.

The Div. 3 bracket has 14 teams, including nearby Hanover (12-4), the No. 3 seed that has played Cohasset well in the regular season.

Norwell (11-7) is the No. 5 seed.

Finally, the No. 3 boys tennis team (16-2) gets underway in the Div. 3 South Sectional, Monday (June 2) against the winner of yesterday's game between No. 6 Old Rochester (15-3) or No. 11 Bishop Connolly (8-8).

Monday's match is scheduled for 3:30 p.m., but is subject to change.

Super Fan T-Shirts ($10) or Cohasset C Hats ($20) are available for sale at school.

PLAY AT SUMMER CAMP!

How Summer Camp Experiences Support Optimal Child Development
By Lucy Jackson Norvell, Director of Public Information, American Camp Association, New England

There's a lot in the news lately about the value of play. Child development experts have always considered opportunities for play essential to optimal child development. And today's families and schools are facing a serious problem: time for play has been squeezed out of the schedule. The American Academy of Pediatrics and other child development experts have issued a number of reports in the last few years emphasizing the importance of play in the lives of developing children. There's a renewed interest in ensuring that children's lives include enough play. Playing develops essential life skills like cooperation, compromise, and teamwork. It encourages social-emotional learning. And playing prepares the developing brain for future challenges of all types—cognitive, social, emotional, and physical. Summer camps provide unparalleled opportunities for play and at camp play is a priority. In fact, play, in a variety of forms, dominates the camp day. The fun experiential educational settings of day and overnight camp, where children learn by doing, are full of opportunities for both unstructured free play and play guided by adults. And these opportunities are woven around times of specific instruction and formal learning.

At camp, playing means moving—often in new and different ways! Whether it's a spontaneous game of tag, a unique camp specific game, a wide game involving a few hundred people, a traditional contest such as a baseball or soccer tournament, an intense gaga match, or a non-competitive game that fosters group cooperation, playing at camp involves moving around a lot: running, climbing, swimming, jumping, stretching. And these are all forms of exercise that are not always part of children's non-camp lives.

Camp play encourages safe risk-taking by allowing campers to try new things—things they may not have felt brave enough to try before, like zooming down the zip line, singing a solo in the talent show, or extending the hand of friendship to someone new. Camp experiences allow children to try on new experiences and to "try on" new attributes and qualities.

Playing at summer camp doesn't only stretch children's muscles; it also encourages them to stretch themselves in all ways and to stretch in the direction of their goals! Campers move beyond their comfort zones and push themselves to exceed their own goals.

Campers grow into their own potential through play. Playing at camp also helps children learn teamwork. Campers build cooperation, compromise and conflict resolution skills under the guidance of trained counselors. Through play, children have critically important experiences of leading and following, and of balancing the needs of the group with their own individual needs and wants.

The settings of summer camp throughout New England—whether nestled among the lakes, forests, beaches, and mountains, or located in or near cities invite, encourage and inspire play. Every child deserves the benefits a play-filled summer camp experience can provide!

Provided by the American Camp Association, New England, a 501 (c)3 organization that serves as the region's leading source for "all things summer camp." Families and camp professionals in CT, MA, ME, NH, RI & VT can visit www.acanewengland.org or call (781) 541-6080 for help finding a camp or for additional information and resources.

Money talk, over wine

Series hosted by women, for women aims to resolve financial planning

By Kristi Funderburk
kfunderburk@wickedlocal.com

Learning the ins and outs of budgeting money may not sound easy or fun, but three local women and business owners are looking to change that.

Allyssa McNamara Reed of Marshfield, Bernadette Faulkner of Cohasset and Sharon McNamara of Pembroke want women to feel more confident about managing their finances. On Wednesday, June 4, the three financial professionals will be offering local women budgeting tips over drinks at The Tavern in Marshfield.

"Nine out of 10 women are going to be managing their own assets for some portion of their life, whether they are single, widowed or divorced," said Faulkner, an insurance advisor with a background in long-term and life care planning. "Less than half of women today report that they know how to do that. Women are unprepared."

"Your Financial Well-Being" is a free panel discussion and wine social designed to help women from across the region take control of their finances by learning information and asking questions in a relaxed atmosphere, she said.

This panel discussion is the first free panel discussion in what the organizers intend to be a quarterly series called "Financially Secure Women."

"Nine out of 10 women are going to be managing their own assets for some portion of their life, whether they are single, widowed or divorced," said Faulkner, an insurance advisor with a background in long-term and life care planning. "Less than half of women today report that they know how to do that. Women are unprepared."

Faulkner said.

"In the division of responsibilities, traditional roles tend to kick in," Faulkner said. "Women spend more time raising the children and men spend more time managing finances. Women haven't caught up yet."

The panel wants to leave women more confident about the tough subject, said McNamara Reed, a certified financial planner and managing partner with McNamara Financial services in Marshfield.

"The reality is that 9 out of 10 women at some point will have sole responsibility for their financial security," she said. "We want to help women

Comedian Joe Kringdon coming to On the Job

How is a job interview similar to performing stand-up comedy? Joe Kringdon will share his insights about comedy and the job search process on Monday, June 2. Kringdon is from the investment community in Boston, but he has been learning how to become a stand-up comedian using the techniques of comedy and improvisation. Stand-up comedy is a fascinating art – and there are techniques that one can learn, which actually can be helpful in situations like job interviews, interactions with co-workers and the always-daunting performance review session with your boss.

Kringdon is a graduate of Holy Cross College and lives in Hingham where he and his wife have raised their three children. He is president of Pioneer Funds Distributor and executive vice president/head of U.S. Retail Distribution and Marketing at Pioneer Investments in Boston. He has been studying and experimenting with comedy for several years now. He said,

"A lot of comedy is highly scripted – but there are also techniques you can learn that help in so many situations – like at work."

Marie Harris, one of the co-leaders of On the Job said, "Joe will provide insight into how his career in local comedy clubs has been developing over the years and also provide some important tips on how to use comedy and a bit of improvisation that can make a big difference in a career search."

OBITUARIES

Obituaries appearing in this section are paid for and written by families, often through the services of a funeral director.

Camille B. Long

COHASSET — Camille Blain Long died peacefully May 19, 2014, at the age of 90, with her family by her side.

Cam, as she was known by many dear friends, was a long-time resident of Cohasset, where she raised her children with the greatest love and care after the sudden and tragic death of her beloved husband, Charles Lewis Long, M.D., in 1973.

Camille Paule Blain was born in Pawtucket, R.I., and raised in nearby Manville. She earned a Bachelor's Degree from Rhode Island College of Education in 1945. For the next twenty years, she taught kindergarten through fourth grade everywhere from Rhode Island to New Jersey to Texas to Pennsylvania, and, for the U.S. Armed Services, in Nuremberg, Germany; Caracas, Venezuela; and Guantanomo Bay, Cuba. At Gitmo, her last foreign posting, she finally met the love of her life, Navy Lieutenant (later Commander) Lew Long, from Port Arthur, Texas. After marrying on base in December 1959, the newlyweds returned to the States, and Camille continued teaching to see Lew through his four years at Temple University School of Medicine. Two months after his graduation in 1965, the couple drove to Burlington, Vermont, to adopt their first child, Charles Andrew; three years later they repeated the trip to welcome Jennifer Blain into the family. By then Camille had "retired" into the career she had cherished and dreamed about for years: being a loving mother and wife, and a proud homeowner. Her wit, kindness and generosity of spirit were a blessing and an inspiration to everyone she met.

Camille is survived by her children, Andrew and Jennifer, and by her many loving nieces, nephews, cousins, and dear friends.

At her request, services will not be held.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be offered in Camille's name to Glastonbury Abbey, 16 Hull Street, Hingham, Massachusetts 02043. <http://www.glastonburyabbey.org>.

Nicholas J. Salerno

COHASSET — Nicholas J. Salerno, age 86, of Cohasset, died peacefully at his home, Wednesday, May 21, 2014 after a long illness. The beloved husband of 61 years to Gertrude "Trudy" (Rogers) Salerno, he was born in Newark, NJ, to Alfred H. Salerno and Grace (DelMauro) Salerno.

A graduate of St. Benedict's Preparatory High School, Newark, NJ, he excelled in track and twice competed in the Millrose games at Madison Square Garden. No one he knew will be surprised to learn he was voted friendliest in his class. After high school, he was stationed in the South Pacific during World War II, and served his country as a pharmacist's mate in the U.S. Navy, then attached to the Marines. He graduated from Seton Hall University and continued his military service as a captain in the National Guard, Company Commander of the 102nd Armored Division.

He began his sales career at Central Scientific Company in Mountainside, New Jersey, later joining Mettler Instrument Corporation where he was promoted to National Sales Manager. He moved his family to Massachusetts to accept a position at International Equipment Corporation, a division of Damon Corporation, Needham, and ultimately served as General Manager and Vice President of Marketing.

During his distinguished life, he was an avid sportsman, and excelled in bowling, sailing, golf, and tennis. He was a member of the Cohasset Golf Club and the Cohasset Sailing Club. Devout in his faith, he embraced his commitment to God as a member of the Nocturnal Adoration Society at St. Mary's Church in Nutley, New Jersey, and as a Eucharistic Minister at St. Anthony Parish in Cohasset. He was proud to have trained several generations of altar servers, including his own granddaughter. During retirement, he volunteered as a van driver for Cohasset Elder Affairs, and for FISH (Friends in Service to Humanity).

He is survived by eight children, Vice Admiral (USCG - Ret) Brian Salerno and his wife Alice O'Brien of Silver Spring, MD, Patricia Sokolowski and her husband John of Derry, NH, Timothy and his wife Liza of Cohasset, Christopher and his wife Alison of Cape Elizabeth, ME, Matthew and his wife Heidi of Cohasset, Gregory and his wife Pam of Cape Elizabeth, ME, Kathryn Saleski and her late husband Douglas of Bluffton, SC, and Jennifer DiBona and her husband Dennis (DJ) of Kingston, MA. In addition, he leaves thirteen grandchildren, Brendan, Michael, Meghan, Benjamin, Julie, Carly, Jay, Charles and James Salerno, Jamie Sokolowski, Lea Saleski and Alfiero and Finn DiBona.

Visiting hours were held on Tuesday, May 27, 2014 from 4-8 p.m. in McNamara-Sparrell Funeral Home, 1 Summer St. (across from St. Anthony Church), Cohasset, MA. A funeral Mass was celebrated on Wednesday, May 28, 2014 at 10 a.m. in St. Anthony Parish, 10 Summer Street, Cohasset, MA. Burial Woodside Cemetery, Cohasset.

In lieu of flowers donations may be sent to Norwell Visiting Nurses Assoc., 120 Longwater Dr., Norwell, MA 02061; Hospice of the South Shore, 30 Reservoir Park Drive, Rockland, MA 02370; or the Social Service League of Cohasset, Senior Center Building Fund, 380 Chief Justice Cushing Hwy, Cohasset, MA 02025. Horoscope

SALOME'S STARS FOR RELEASE WEEK OF JUNE 9, 2014

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Try using that Aries charm to warm up the usual set of workplace naysayers, and then back it up with a solid block of facts and figures to sell your idea to your colleagues.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) While nothing can deter a determined Bovine from following a course you believe in, it helps to have some supporting data and statements by trusted colleagues to make your case.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Take advantage of new information that could help make your career transition easier. The weekend is a good time to re-establish relationships with people you haven't seen in a while.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Personal matters demand your attention as once-stable situations begin to shift. Quick action to shore things up is called for in order to avoid more problems down the line.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Although your financial picture begins to brighten, "thrift" and "caution" are still the watchwords for fiscally astute Leos and Leonas to live by. Expect news about a family matter.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Before you try to blame a colleague for a workplace problem, make sure you have the proof to back you up. Make some quiet inquiries on your own to try to solicit more information.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Trying to cheer up a depressed friend or downcast family member can be difficult. But keep at it, and your efforts should soon pay off in ways you might have never expected.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Taking a new look at an old and frequently recurring problem might lead you to consider making some surprising changes in the way you had been handling it up till now.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Despite what the naysayers might say, setting your sights on a new goal could be one of the smartest things the typically sagacious Sagittarian has done in a long time.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Rebuilding an unraveling relationship won't be easy. But you can do it, if you really want to. Just remember to keep the lines of communication open between the two of you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A new friendship could develop into a close relationship. Meanwhile, reassure an old friend who might be feeling neglected that he or she is still an important part of your life.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might be feeling that you're still in over your head as you continue trying to adjust to your new situation. But the pressures ease by week's end, giving you time to come up for air.

(c) 2014 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for sensing the feelings of others. You might consider a career in some aspect of counseling.
